WORK WILL START ON NEW HOTEL NEXT MONDAY

East Glendale Advancement Association Informed of Plans to Proceed

Actual work on the site of the new hotel will be commenced Monday.

This statement was made yesterday noon in the Broadway Inn, 637 East Broadway, by Mrs. Mabel L. Tight of 612 East Broadway at the weekly luncheon of the East Glendale Advancement Association.

The information was obtained by her from H. J. Tremaine of Los Angeles, who will be the ultimate owner of the hotel.

News of the contemplated work next week was received with acclaim by those present.

Herman Nelson, manager of the Glendale Boulevard Branch of the Los Angeles Trust & Savings Bank, reported that the funds which Glendale had been required to raise for the hotel, were practically all in sight and that all financial details were being worked out satisfactorily. He said that some delay was being caused by technicalities insisted upon by the state corporation commissioner.

Propose Three Shifts

Arrangements have been made by a representative of the Universal Construction company, according to report, to have three shifts of workmen fed each day at the Broadway Inn. This has been taken as an indication that the work will be continued both day and night.

Progress in the collection of donations for the $25,000 bonus to be given to the Glendale & Montrose Railway company for the establishment of electric service on Glendale avenue was reported by John P. Lampert of 622 East Broadway, chairman of the transportation committee.

"We are awake and on the job," he asserted. "By next Thursday we will be able to report something encouraging."

"I don't want you folks to get too hiliarious," cautioned President C. W. Ingledue of 632 East Broadway. "The few thousand dollars which we have to raise on this proposition looks bigger to me than the money for the hotel proposition ever did."

Contributions Low

According to Mr. Ingledue, land owners are not contributing to the fund as generously as might be expected.

George Montgomery Home Social Scene

The delightful garden of the George Montgomery home at 500 Kenneth road was the scene yesterday of one of the most enjoyable gatherings of St. Mark's Guild members that the organization has ever had. Mrs. Montgomery received thirty-five for the affair and a picnic luncheon and informal meeting were the features.

After the luncheon hour Rev. W. D. Parker, rector of the Episcopal church at Burbank, led a devotional hour and a short business session followed. During the business session plans were formulated for the cooked sale the guild is to hold Saturday, August 12, and for the benefit dinner-dance to be held Thursday, August 31.

Special guests enjoying the affair with the guild members were:

Rev. and Mrs. W. D. Parker and Mrs. E. L. Mansell of Burbank; Mrs. Laura Bolthous of Los Angeles; Mrs. E. P. Peters and Mrs. A. E. Conk.

Guild members present were Mesdames Mortimer Baker, O. B. Hill, Alma Squires, E. D. Barnard, J. F. Murphy, E. E. Bassett, F. J. Stoner, Grace Rowsey, M. J. Gaylor, Francis Murphy, John Trotter, I. H. Wells, W. L. Baker, Archie Parker, M. P. Scott, F. C. Hunt, A. E. Sullivan, B. A. Atwood, Bine Smith, F. S. Card, Frank England, Helen Campbell, J. F. Murrie and Misses M. L. Parker, L. E. Litch and Dorothy Kennedy.

S. A. Warren Chosen Park Superintendent

S. A. Warren has been appointed superintendent of the new municipal park.

As soon as arrangements can be made, Mr. and Mrs. Warren will move from their home at 1418 East Maple street to the modern bungalow in the park which they will rent from the city as their new residence.

Mr. Warren has been employed in the building office at the city hall for the past nine months. He is known to the "boys" of the building department and his friends as "Sam."

Under a ruling recently issued by the city council, no concessions at the park will be leased this season. According to City Manager W. H. Reeves, if a hungry public insists upon buying peanuts, "pop-er-jack and cracked corn," it will be up to the superintendent of the park to administer to their appetites.

NEW ASSESSED VALUATION JUST COMPLETED SHOWS CITY GROWTH

Total of Close to $22,000,000 Is Placed By County Upon Glendale Properties

Additional convincing proof of the great growth of the city of Glendale!

The total assessed valuation of Glendale as determined for taxation purposes for 1922-23 is about $21,968,000.

The total assessed valuation for 1921-22 was $12,476,000. So the figures show the growth of the city in one year—a most remarkable growth.

The figures quoted for the assessed valuation of 1922-23 have been passed upon by the county auditor's office, and it is predicted, will not be changed much by the county auditor.

It is also predicted that the total city and county tax rate for 1922-23 will be in the neighborhood of $4.65. The rate at present is $4.19, on an average throughout the city.

Taxation rate for the city of Glendale has been increased slightly by the council, and it is predicted, the county will also make an increase in the rate.

It is probable that the exact figures will be available the last of this month.

H. A. Harrison, City Controller, Reports to Council on Condition of Municipal Budget

Condition of the general budget of the city of Glendale is outlined in a report to the city council just completed by H. A. Harrison, city controller. Accompanying the detailed figures is a communication from Mr. Harrison in which he says:

To the Council of the City of Glendale, Gentlemen: I herewith present for your consideration report of the general budget for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1922, showing original appropriations, expenditures, including a net deficit from 1920-21 in the amount of $7,277.83, classified as to capital outlays, salaries and wages, supplies and expenses and balance of over or under expenditures.

This excess expenditure for the year was $26,797.37 over the original appropriations, while the excess of revenue over the original estimate was $30,962.02, leaving excess net revenue over all expenditures of $4,164.65.

Also attached report of revenues and expenditures as of June 30, 1922, showing sources of revenue and comparison of actual to the original estimates for this period.

There remained a balance of cash in the general budget fund on June 30, 1922 of $20,850.01, while June unpaid demands on file totaled $16,665.36, leaving excess cash over unpaid demands in the sum of $4,184.65. This amount is the excess of the current assets over current liabilities for the general budget fund as at June 30 and in accordance with article No. 11, section No. 14, of the city charter, should be transferred to the general fund.

The park and recreation fund revenues for the past fiscal year was $6,687.16, while the expenditures totaled $1,910.89, leaving cash in fund as at June 30 in the sum of $4,776.27, with which to

Church Class Holds Outing at Brookside

A moonlight picnic dinner in Brookside park was given last night by members of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist Sunday school with their husbands as special guests. The affair was planned by the class members who took part in the little play, "How the Story Grew," Mesdames Douglas Clint and W. F. Stahn being directly in charge of arrangements.

The company motored over to the park at 6 o'clock and thirty class members and guests were seated about the tables for the picnic dinner. Following the supper hour games were enjoyed. Mrs. C. M. Christ is the class teacher and Mrs. Lydia Rehberg the class president.

J. L. Murphy Family At Home From Trip

J. L. Murphy and family of 405 East Stocker street have returned from a two-weeks' motor trip through the northern part of the state. About a week of that time was spent at Yosemite National park. They report excellent trout fishing at Lyon's dam in the Sierra Nevada mountains above Sonora, Calif. Mr. and Mrs. Murphy made the entire trip of 1100 miles in their new Columbia special six with no motor trouble whatever.

O. E. McDowell New Mathematics Teacher

O. E. McDowell, who for the past five years has been superintendent of schools in Malta, Montana, has accepted by wire a position as head of the mathematics department of Glendale Union High school.

In the past, A. L. Ferguson of 525 North Jackson street, has filled the position of both vice-principal for boys and head of the mathematics department. He will devote all of his time to executive work in the future.

W. R. PHILON GETS YEAR'S VACATION FROM GAS CO. ENGINEER ARRIVES FOR SANITARIUM CONSTRUCTION

Local Manager for Twelve Years; Aids In Heavy
Increase In Service

William R. Philon, for the past twelve years local manager of the Southern California Gas Company, and an official of that company since its inception fifteen years ago, has been granted a leave of absence of one year, due to his impaired health.

Mr. and Mrs. Philon have leased their home at 216 East Windsor Road and are to leave this evening for Grey's Camp at Big Bear Lake. They will make the trip by motor, and expect to remain at Big Bear until snow flies. Plans for their vacation after that time have not yet been made, but further trips probably depending on the condition of Mr. Philon's health at that time.

Under Heavy Strain

"My work for the past number of years has put such a strain upon me," stated Mr. Philon this morning, "that my nerves have become affected. The company has deemed it best to give me this year's leave of absence. I have in no way severed my relations with the Southern California Gas Company, and they have always treated me with the utmost consideration."

Arrangements have been made by the company to have one of its organization fill Mr. Philon's place until he may resume his duties with the company before that time, it is said, but the date of his return depends upon the state of his health.

Mr. Philon began his service with the Gas Company when it was formed, about fifteen years ago. In 1910 he came to Glendale as head of the local branch of the organization.

Helps Big Increase

During the twelve years of Mr. Philon's residence in Glendale as manager, the number of gas meters which are supplied through this office has increased from about 1,500 to over 10,000, and the other departments of the local office have had a corresponding improvement and growth.

Although his duties with the company during the rapid growth which it has experienced ever since it opened here, have made great demands upon him, Mr. Philon has found time to be actively connected with a number of local organizations. He is a member of the Order of Elks, Masons, and of the Spanish-American War Veterans, and is a member of the publicity committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce.

Have Many Friends

During his twelve years' residence here, Mr. and Mrs. Philon have made a large number of friends. Those who have been intimately acquainted with him during the past few years have realized that the tremendous strain was beginning to tell on Mr. Philon, and that it would soon be necessary for him to take a vacation.

Employees at the local Gas Company office have the deepest respect for their manager, and with the other friends of Mr. and Mrs. Philon are looking forward to his rapid recovery and return to Glendale.

W. Broadway Cutoff Is Again Discussed

Removing the jog at the corner of West Broadway and Central was again discussed at the meeting of the city council last night with the result that W. H. Reeves, city manager, was instructed to have prepared a map showing the two corners cut back for a distance of ten feet. He was also instructed to procure other information on the "cut-off" plan.

The council is also considering an ordinance continuing West Broadway across property facing on that street and also on Central. Both plans are open for discussion, the council announced.

Protests of property owners halted the recent plan to put the street through, but the proposed ordinance contemplates a much larger assessment district and the handling of payments through a bond issue, covering a period of ten years.

Alfred Cookman to Reside In Glendale

Among the recent arrivals here are Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cookman. Mr. Cookman being the son of Rev. W. W. Cookman, 638 North Louise street, who have been spending the week-end here. Accompanying the Cookmans on the trip here from San Diego were Miss Elizabeth Clark of New Jersey and Fred Finn, principal of the Evening High school at San Diego.

Mr. Cookman plans on giving up his residence in San Diego and coming to Glendale to live as he was recently elected to the faculty of Polytechnic high school at Los Angeles and resigned his position at the San Diego High school. Biology and hygiene will be the subjects taught by Mr. Cookman at Poly.

City Manager W. H. Reeves stated this morning that no one else has yet been selected to fill the vacancy.

W. E. Whalen of Oakland Is Here to Direct Work on Great Health Plant

W. E. Whalen of Oakland, construction engineer for the Seventh-day Adventist denomination, has arrived in Glendale to take charge of the erection of the new $500,000 plant for the Glendale Sanitarium.

"This new sanitarium will be to the west what Battle Creek is to the east," declared Mr. Whalen yesterday. "There will be nothing like it on the coast. It will be the most complete sanitarium this side of Chicago. In fact, it will embody the very latest in sanitarium ideas and will be a pattern for others."

"It is going to be a wonderful asset to Glendale. I will be proud of it and Glendale will be proud of it, too."

Eighteen Months' Work

Actual construction work probably will not start until the middle of next month, according to Mr. Whalen, who stated that the contract would not be awarded until he had gone over every detail with A. F. Priest of 1422 North Central avenue, the architect, and both were convinced that the plans are as perfect as possible. Construction will require about eighteen months.

One of the features of the new establishment will be its treatment rooms. These will be completely equipped as any similar treatment rooms in the world. They will be modeled after the treatment rooms in the Battle Creek Sanitarium, but will embody many improvements.

Praise for Site

The first unit of the new "health plant" will contain private rooms for 150 patients. Two-thirds of these rooms will have bathrooms adjoining and all will have toilet facilities.

Accommodations will be provided for a training class of fifty or sixty nurses. The building will be of Class A construction and will have a brick exterior, which is located between Sycamore and Central and Broadway east of Sinclair avenue, one of the most admirable in the country for sanitarium purposes.

Celebrate Birthday Event at Fuelshers

Mrs. A. H. Fuelsher of 622 North Isabel street, entertained Tuesday at a prettily-appointed luncheon in honor of her sister, Mrs. J. H. Evans of Long Beach, who was celebrating her birthday anniversary.

The table was decorated with brilliant marigolds, a large yellow candle in the center of the flowers, enhancing the color with beautiful effect.

The yellow color scheme was also carried out in the dainty appointments. Covers were laid for twelve while the small guests were made happy with a dainty picnic lunch served on the lawn. During the afternoon the guests passed the time with games and fancy needle work. In a guessing contest, concerning names of popular summer resorts, the prize was awarded Mrs. M. Fife, and Mrs. W. G. Owen carried off the honors for dressing dolls. The guests were Mrs. J. H. Evans, Mrs. W. C. Powell, Mrs. Marsha Prowse, Miss Mabel Evans, Mrs. W. Maurer, Walter Maurer of Long Beach; Mrs. W. G. Owen and daughter, Jewell, of Pasadena; Mrs. Frank Obenhouse, Los Angeles; Mrs. John Moss of Van Nuys; Mrs. M. Fife, Miss Margaret Fife, Mildred Fife, Mrs. L. Green, Jane Green, Mrs. George O. ## Harry McCrae's Car Damaged In Crash

A new auto owned by Harry S. McCrae of 132 North Kenwood street was badly damaged about 4:15 yesterday afternoon in a collision near the intersection of Central avenue and San Fernando road. He pulled out slowly from the curb and a truck, driven by O. G. Gay of Los Angeles, coming from the rear, passed close to his car. A truck which it was hauling, swung around and hit the side of Mr. McCrae's machine. No one was injured.

LENROOT ATTACK ON HARRISON, STARTS BIG ROW

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—An attack upon Senator Harrison, Democratic spokesman, by Senator Lenroot, Republican, of Wisconsin, for alleged absenteeism, led to a factional row in the senate this afternoon. Lenroot charged Harrison with being absent "so much that his speeches on the tariff bill are filled with inaccuracies." Senator Stanley, Kentucky, hotly defended Harrison.

M'KELLAR RECEIVES DEMOCRATIC NOMINATION

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 4.—Senator K. D. McKellar has received the Democratic nomination for United States senator in the primaries by a majority estimated today on incomplete returns as 40,000. G. T. Fitzhugh was second. Austen Peay of Clarksville, an attorney, was nominated for governor by a plurality estimated at 12,000. Benton McMillan, former governor, ran second.

SENATOR CONDEMNS PUBLISHER F. A. MUNSEY

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Bitterly condemning Frank A. Munsey, New York publisher of a number of great metropolitan newspapers, Senator Gooding, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the senate tariff "bloc," today charged opposition to the Cumber tariff bill was caused principally by attempts of American international bankers to liquidate the $400,000,000 estate of Archduke Frederick of Austria. Gooding charged the New York Herald, Boston Herald, Chicago Tribune, New York Post and Minneapolis Tribune were attempting to sell America to European manufacturers and merchants. He declared these papers were "interested in the defeat of a protective tariff."

STATE OFFICIALS INTERVENE IN CHICAGO STRIKE

CHICAGO, Aug. 4.—The state of Illinois intervened in the Chicago street car situation this afternoon when Charles A. Townsend, assistant director of the state department of labor, served Henry A. Blair, president, and other members of the board of control of the surface lines with a summons to appear tomorrow before a special hearing of the Illinois industrial commission. "The situation," declared Townsend, "looks very bad, indeed, so bad that the state has decided to take a hand. We are going to see this thing through to the bitter end." It was pointed out that while the commission has power to issue summons, it has no power to act, but may publish its findings.

BIG FOUR CHARGE DEFECTIVE LOCOMOTIVES USED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4.—Drastic action by the "big four" of the railway brotherhoods is imminent as a result of the alleged "perilous condition" of rolling stock on the railroads, brotherhood leaders in Washington told the International News Service today. They charged defective locomotives are being operated by the railroads in violation of federal laws. According to information reaching labor circles here today officials of the "big four" transportation brotherhoods and of the railroad clerks, telegraphers and maintenance of way employees will come to Washington within the next few days to protest to President Harding against the condition of locomotives. At the same time it became known that labor leaders are gathering data for an energetic protest to congress and it is possible an investigation of the interstate commerce commission will be asked for its alleged laxity in enforcing federal laws.

LONDON PESSIMISTIC OVER ALLIED CONFERENCE

LONDON, August 4.—The eighth anniversary today of England's entrance into the world war found the victors treading a rocky road beneath a gathering cloud of pessimistic belief that Premier Lloyd George's call for a general allied conference next week will fail. The Anglo-French premiers, accompanied by representatives of Belgium and Italy, will plunge into the double problem of German indemnity and inter-allied war debts Monday. Although it had been reported that the French were prepared to cut down German indemnity 50,000,000 gold marks ($12,000,000,000), if Great Britain and the United States would cancel the debts owing to them by France, it is believed unlikely that M. Poincare will be prepared to go that far. A clear idea of the attitude England will take was given by Premier Lloyd George in the house of commons when he said, that while Britain is willing for a general annulment of war debts the British taxpayers could not stand the burden that would be imposed by partial cancellation.

DELAY NEW OBENCHAIN TRIAL HEARING TO AUG. 18

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—When Madalynne Obenchain, charged with conspiracy in the slaying of J. Belton Kennedy, appeared before Judge Shenk today to have the date of her third trial set, upon request of her counsel, Jud Rush, the matter went over until August 18. On that date Judge Shenk will name the date for starting the next trial. No action was taken today in an attempt to get Mrs. Obenchain out of jail on bail, her attorney requesting that all other matters in addition to setting the trial date be taken up at that time. Coincident with the appearance of Madalynne C. Obenchain in court today the matter of pushing charges of alleged misconduct on the part of some of the jurors in Mrs. Obenchain's last trial may be taken up by some of the other jurors, it was reported. The district attorney has announced that his office will make no investigation and the defense attorneys have intimated they propose to take no action.

LA CRESCENTA AND MONTROSE FAVOR ELECTRIC LINE

Citizens of Two Districts
Offer to Pay Share of $25,000 Bonus

Citizens of LaCrescenta and Montrose, assembled in the LaCrescenta school house, last night endorsed the establishment of electric service on Glendale avenue and offered to pay their share of the $25,000 bonus which is to be paid the Glendale and Montrose Railway company.

The Glendale city council adjourned early last night in order that representatives of the local government might attend the meeting.

Mayor Spencer Robinson led the audience in the singing of America and made a short campaign talk for Mattison B. Jones, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor. He also made a big hit by paying for a membership in their association in the name of the city of Glendale.

Tells of Benefits

City Manager W. H. Reeves enthusiastically explained the benefits that would accrue from the added street car service. He proved Glendale's affection for these neighboring communities by the fact that the new park has been purchased as close as possible to them. He commented upon mutual interests and dwelt upon the value of co-operation.

The local city council was represented by C. E. Kimlin and A. H. Lapham, both of whom took part in the discussion.

Surveys by V. Wright of Pasadena and a number of others from out of town were among those present.

Street Light System

In behalf of the city of Glendale, Mr. Reeves promised co-operation in providing a connected system of street lights between Glendale and LaCrescenta.

Complaints were voiced also in regard to Glendale's "speed cops." The East Glendale Advancement association, which is protesting against the electric line, was represented by its president, C. W. Ingledue of 501 East Wilson avenue, its secretary, Herman Nelson of 641 East Harvard street, and John F. McElch of 410 East Maple street, members of the transportation committee.

Old Timer Marvels at City's Progress

J. C. Shay, who served as a special deputy sheriff in Glendale thirty years ago, was a business visitor here this morning and recounted how he had hunted jackrabbits in the vicinity where The News office now stands on Brand boulevard.

Mr. Shay, who now resides in Los Angeles, has just completed a historical book entitled "Twenty Years in the Backwoods of California." It depicts life as it was in Madera county in the early part of this century when bandits infested the hills.

The late President Roosevelt passed Shay's mountain cabin while en route to Yosemite and many other notables stopped there as well as prospectors and others who were not so widely known.

The former Glendale resident can hardly believe his eyes when he looks at this city today and recalls the lone store and postoffice at the county crossroads thirty years ago. Los Angeles merchants and others had their homes out here in those days and owned real ranches which have passed in the path of subdivision.

Offer Many Prizes at Community Picnic

Approximately $1000 in prizes are being hung up by local business men for the Glendale Merchants' Credit association to be held Wednesday, August 16, at the new city park in Verdugo Woodlands, according to an announcement this morning by Secretary Frank H. Pilling.

It is laudable to hear him drone over the hundred or so of events listed, including women's nail driving contest, fat women's races, boys' potato races, girls' three-arm races, auto owners' races, etc.

From all indications this picnic is going to be the biggest thing of its kind ever staged here, as years have passed since the whole town turned out for a day of pleasure. Ball games, basket lunch, music and other features also are being arranged.

Postmaster's Auto Slightly Scratched

Postmaster D. Ripley Jackson's bright yellow roadster was slightly scratched about 6 o'clock last night when it was run into by a car driven by Mrs. C. D. Danforth of 912 East Harvard street. The collision occurred at the intersection of Gardena avenue and Los Feliz Road. Mr. Jackson was not far from his home at 1800 South Brand boulevard.

VAUDEVILLE WILL BE ADDITION ON T. D. & L. BILL

Ralph Allan Is Offering Big Program Tonight; Picture Is 'Borderland'

Ralph Allan offers patrons of the T. D. & L. theatre tonight in addition to the feature picture, the Garvin Sisters, Alma and Marion, high-class entertainers in song, dances and character, previously enjoyed at Grauman's theatre.

"These little ladies will win themselves into your heart. They are exceptionally clever and Miss Marion is considered the 'Tetrazzini' of the younger generation. They will specialize in four numbers, each entertaining and delightful," says Manager Allan.

A wistful spirit, a super-modern wife, a girl of 1850, a group of clever "kiddies" and a trained dog are delightfully mixed together in "Borderland," Agnes Ayres' new Paramount picture, which opens at the T. D. & L. theatre today.

The supernatural is most effectively used for dramatic effect. Bora Becker, a wife of 1850, returns to warn Jacky Edith Wayne against the consequences of a mistake from which she has suffered. A triple role gives Miss Ayres a chance for some finely drawn characterizations. Lots of human interest is added to the offering by the presence of such popular child players as Frankie Lee and Mary Jane Irving. Milton Sills has the male lead, while other well known thespians are Bertram Grassby, Sylvia Ashton, Carson Ferguson, Fred Huntley and Ruby Lafayette.

President, Cabinet Again Review Strike

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 4.—President Harding met with his cabinet today for another inventory of the industrial situation, admitted by government officials generally to be daily growing more serious and more dangerous in its potentialities.

Today's meeting was the sixth consecutive session that has been devoted entirely to discussion of the rail and coal strikes and methods of remedying them.

In the rail strike, it was strongly intimated in cabinet quarters today there will be important developments within 24 hours, and the belief was prevalent that another peace thrust is imminent. Conditions in the railroad field were officially described today as being "intolerable." To the already chaotic conditions that prevail in some sections was added today the menace of the disaffection spreading to other classes of railroad workers besides the shopmen, who up to this time have had no part in the strike.

Idemity Demands Claimed Impossible

BERLIN, Aug. 4.—Germany is sending a note to France announcing that it is impossible for this country to accept the latest indemnity demands of the French, it was learned today. This note is in reply to a communication sent to Berlin by Premier Poincare of France a week ago today. The communication intimates that Germany expects new proposals "which will be carefully examined." President Ebert and Chancellor Wirth held a long conference on the note.

Gentleness is not weakness.

S. F. Police Seeking Letter of Castor

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 4.—Search was under way today for a "confession" letter reported to police to have been written to Captain of Detectives Matheson by Walter Castor some time prior to his killing Detective Timothy J. Bailey. Mrs. Robert Castor and himself yesterday when trapped by police at the home of his mother in Kansas street.

According to disclosures to police of Robert Castor, a brother, the letter contained a full account of Walter Castor's part in the slaying of Mrs. Henry Wilkens. Through the death of Castor the police already have secured valuable light on the murder of Mrs. Wilkens, for which Henry Wilkens, her husband, must stand trial.

Mrs. Margaret Bramlett, a nurse in the home of Walter's uncle, Henry Castor, where he was in hiding for several days, told the police Walter had discussed the case at length with her and had said he had $5,000 coming from Henry Wilkens, of which he had received only $450.

According to this witness and statements to the police by Robert Castor, Walter repeatedly denied having fired the shot which ended Mrs. Wilkens' life, although he admitted his participation in the "framed" hold-up.

STORY OF LINCOLN ASSASSINATION AGAIN GIVEN

Dr. David A. Baker, Local Resident, Has Copy of Paper With Account

Press accounts given in 1865 of the assassination of Abraham Lincoln are found in a time-worn old newspaper, headed "The New York Herald," printed apparently in New York, Saturday, April 15, 1865, and belonging to Dr. David A. Baker of 118 West Wilson street.

Of course, the most interesting and important account in the columns of the paper is the official dispatch issued by the war department, April 15, 1865, at 1:30 a. m. It reads in part:

"Major General Dix, New York. This evening at about 9:30 p. m., a Ford's Theatre, the president, while sitting in his private box with Mrs. Lincoln, Mrs. Harris and Major Rathburn, was shot by an assassin.

"The pistol ball entered the back of the president's head and penetrated nearly through the head. The wound is mortal. The president has been insensible ever since it was inflicted and is now dying. It is probable the president will live through the night.

Stabs Secretary
"About the same hour an assassin, whether the same or not, is not known, entered Mr. Seward's apartments, and under pretense of having a prescription was shown to the secretary, Mr. Charles A. Smith, an assassin immediately rushed to the bed and inflicted two or three stabs on the throat and two on the face. It is hoped the wounds may not be mortal. My apprehension is that they will prove fatal. Frederick Seward hastened to the door of his father's room, when he met the assassin who inflicted upon him one or more dangerous wounds. The recovery of Frederick Seward is doubtful."

This official dispatch was written and signed by Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war.

That the identity of the assassin was not at once established is seen in the account of the assassination, which says:

"At the close of the third act a person entered the box occupied by the president and shot Mr. Lincoln in the head. The shot entered the back of his head and came out above the temple. The assassin then jumped from the box upon the stage and ran across to the other side, exhibiting a dagger in his hand, flourishing it in a tragical manner, shouting the same words repeated by the desperado at Mr. Seward's house, adding to it, 'The South is avenged,' and then escaped from the back entrance to the stage, but in his passage dropped his pistol and his hat. Mr. Lincoln fell forward in his seat, and Mrs. Lincoln fainted.

"The president was taken and carried to Mr. Peterson's house in Tenth street, opposite the theatre.

Escapes on Horseback
"As the assassin ran across the stage, Colonel J. B. Stewart, of this city, who was occupying one of the front seats in the orchestra, on the same side of the house as the box occupied by Mr. Lincoln, sprang to the stage and followed him; but he was obstructed in his passage across the stage by the fright of the actors, and reached the back door about three seconds after the assassin had passed out. Colonel Stewart got to the street just in time to see him mount his horse and ride away.

"The operator shows that the whole thing was a preconcerted plan. The person who fired the pistol was a man about 30 years of age, about five feet nine, spare built, fair skin, dark hair, apparently bushy, with a large moustache. Laura Keen and the leader of the orchestra recognized him as J. Wilkes Booth, the actor, and a rabid secessionist. Whoever he was, it is plainly evident that he thoroughly understood the theatre and all the approaches and modes of escape from the stage.

At President's Bedside
"The president is perfectly senseless and there is not the slightest hope of his surviving. Physicians believe he will die before morning. All of his cabinet except Secretary Seward, are with him. Speaker Colfax, Senator Fawcett of Maine and many other gentlemen are also at the house awaiting the termination.

"The scene at the president's bedside is described by one who witnessed it as most affecting. It was surrounded by his cabinet ministers, all of whom were bathed in tears, not even excepted Mr. Stanton, who, when informed by Surgeon General Barnes, that the president could not live until morning, exclaimed, 'Oh, no, General; no, no!' and with an impulse natural as it was unaffected, immediately sat down on a chair near his bedside and wept like a child. Senator Sumner was seated on the right of the president's couch, near the head, holding the right hand of the president in his own. He was sobbing like a woman, with his head bowed down almost on the pillow of the bed, on which the president was lying.

Later Dispatch Given
"The president continues insensible and sinking. Secretary Seward remains without change; Frederick Seward's skull is fractured in two places; besides a severe cut upon the head. Major Seward's wounds are not dangerous.

"It is now ascertained with reasonable certainty that two assassins were engaged in the horrible crime, Wilkes Booth being the one that shot the president and the other an accomplice, whose name is not known, but whose description is so clear that he can hardly escape.

Tells Police Story Of Brotherly Bandit

Sir Laurence is out again! A daylight hold-up yesterday in La Canada this morning was brought to the attention of the Glendale Police department by Emil Nekuda, its victim.

Mr. Nekuda and his step-mother, Mrs. Anna Nekuda, have been living in a tent at the top of School street, La Canada. Yesterday afternoon about 3 o'clock while Mrs. Nekuda was away, he returned in his Ford from the vineyard where he had been working. He noticed a man near the entrance to the tent and went to meet him.

"Hold up your hands!" insisted the man pointing a gun at Mr. Nekuda who obeyed with alacrity. He was then accused of having insulted the stranger's sister. This was denied by Mr. Nekuda who explained that he was a newcomer in the vicinity.

"Well, I think you've got some letters from her that will prove it," declared the uninvited guest, all the while keeping his revolver dangerously exposed. He searched his victim's pockets and then forced him to open the door of the tent which he searched thoroughly, even breaking the lock on a trunk and examining its contents carefully.

Unable to find the letters, the "brotherly bandit" apologized for the intrusion and requested Mr. Nekuda to look around to ascertain that nothing had been stolen. He then requested a ride in the automobile to Eagle Rock where they parted company.

Such was the tale told this morning at 8:15 o'clock. The stranger did not leave his card or any information as to the identity of his sister.

It is so clear that he can hardly escape. It appears from papers found in Booth's trunk that the murder was planned before the 4th of March, but fell through then, because the accomplice backed out until Richmond could be heard from.

Final Word Is Given
"Washington, April 15, 1865, 7:30 a. m., Abraham Lincoln died this morning at twenty-two minutes past 7 o'clock, Edwin M. Stanton, secretary of war."

Other columns of the paper include an account of Jeff Davis' last proclamation, the headlines reading that Jeff Davis "thinks the fall of Richmond a blessing in disguise, as it leaves the rebel armies free to move from point to point."

Mathilde M'Cormick Not Met by Oser

CHERBOURG, France, Aug. 4.—Miss Mathilde M'Cormick, 17-year-old granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, arrived here today on the liner Majestic, but, contrary to expectations, she was not met by her father, Harold F. M'Cormick, nor by her fiancé, Major Max Oser, Swiss riding master. "This is the most exciting morning of my life," exclaimed Mathilde to the International News Service correspondent. She was on the point of saying more when her Scandinavian maid shot a warning glance at the head stewardess. The stewardess shot around a corner and immediately Uncle Cyrus M'Cormick put in an appearance, ending all further attempts at conversation.

There was gossip on ship board that Miss M'Cormick was coming to Europe to marry Major Oser. Her romance has attracted international attention, due to the great wealth of her family and the disparity in the ages of the two. Major Oser is understood to be 47 years old, or nearly three times the age of his fiancée. It is known Oser secured a passport to visit France, but so far no one has been found who has seen him here. Oser was reported to be in Paris today to meet his sweetheart.

The arrival of Mathilde in France has heightened public interest in the love affairs of the M'Cormick family. Harold F. M'Cormick is seen in Paris daily in the presence of Madame Ganda Walska, beautiful actress.

Purchasers who bought lots in a barley field from us just one year ago, have seen Fairview develop into a prosperous community of homes; have seen lots advance in value from $500 to $800; from $450 to $725.

Reviewing what has been done in one year, it is not hard to appreciate that lots in Fairview in five years or less will command from $1000 up.

GAS CO. EMPLOYEES TO HOLD ANNUAL PICNIC EVENT

Seventy Expected to Attend
Third Annual Gathering
From Glendale

The third annual picnic of the employees of the Southern California Gas Company, with their families, will be held tomorrow at Brookside Park, Pasadena. About seventy persons are expected to attend the affair from Glendale. Special Pacific Electric trains will convey the picnicers from Los Angeles, and from San Bernardino, Redlands, Riverside, and other cities in that locality. All districts of the company will have special trains to the Park.

Employees at the local office are all fortunate in having their own automobiles, and the Glendale delegation will go by automobile in a body, leaving here early tomorrow morning.

Take Basket Lunches
Basket lunches will be taken by those who attend the picnic, and ice cream, cold drinks and coffee will be served at the park by the company.

A program for the day has been arranged, the first event starting at 10 a. m. The morning's individual contests will be water sports, to be held in the swimming pool at the park. Eight contests are to be staged, including swimming diving and novelty water races.

The noon hour will be devoted to lunch, and at 1:30 in the afternoon the picnicers will gather for the picture which is to be made at that time.

Immediately following, the afternoon's athletic program will begin. Various kinds of novelty races, pie eating contests, tugs of war and other contests will be held, and at the conclusion of the day a field meet prizes will be awarded to the winners.

Of the morning and afternoon events, the prizes are to be given by the company.

Contests Scheduled
A tug of war between the employees of Los Angeles county and those of Riverside county will be the last of the afternoon's events.

Many of the picnicers are to remain at the park for dinner, and in the evening there will be dancing on the tennis courts. A check-in place is to be provided, and "first aid in the check room," according to the program.

The two former annual picnics have been complete successes, according to C. A. Nagle, salesman at the local office and a member of the entertainment committee for the picnic. The first was held at Santa Monica and the one last year at Redondo Beach. This year's is expected to be the best attended yet, with at least 1,700 being expected tomorrow.

Mr. Nagle says that since Glendale has now provided a large city park, he is going to make every effort to bring the picnic here next year.

ISOLATED PLACES GET BIG BENEFIT FROM RADIO

Agencies of Civilization Are Not Strengthened by Air
Communication

By EDWARD J. NALLY
President Radio Corporation of America

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—The future of radio telephony is assured. It already has a healthy and well defined field. The future of the radiophone broadcasting, however, is another matter and in this we can speculate with only limitation of the imagination.

Contrary to popular understanding, radio has not come to us suddenly. It has been under development continuously during the last twenty-two years. Commercial radio communication—that is, overseas radio telephony—has reached a high state of development and has found its place in fact, radio now is carrying a large part of the telegraph traffic between the United States and Europe and between the United States and Japan. The total volume is constantly increasing.

As to radio telephony, it has been under development during the past fifteen years, and during the world war was successfully used for both one way and two way communication. It is not communication in a two-way sense. Radio broadcasting is the application of a fairly well-developed science to a new use. Broadcasting is the recent development, not radio.

Future Development
We may visualize the future radio as developing in quantity and quality, perhaps, as news distributing has grown since Franklin's time and as organized entertainment has grown in popular favor since the days of Tony Pastor's theatre. Radiophone broadcasting gives us a new facility by means of which these potent agencies of civilization may be strengthened and made more popular and universal.

Broadcasting already has given the condition of isolation a new meaning. Isolation now, if it exists, must be a desired condition. Noman, no family, no matter where located geographically with regard to railroad or wire telegraphs, need be beyond the range of daily radiophone broadcasted news items.

It is difficult, therefore, to understand how any thinking person can believe that broadcasting will not be further extended. Isolation of families in rural or mountain districts no longer need be involuntary.

Popular radio—relatively short-distance radio telephony—is the outcome of the realization of the vast possibilities of one-way transmission of news matter, vocal and instrumental music, lectures and sermons.

It Is Available
Radiophone transmission from central, organized sources of information and entertainment make it possible for the citizen to receive this service through the small investment involved in purchasing a radiophone receiver.

The facility of the radiophone is here. It is available. If there is anything nebulous about its status it is only that its vast significant possibilities have been realized so recently that there is not as yet agreement as to what its most useful application shall be.

In the meantime, it is serving, making its way here and there and getting acquainted, so that we may well believe that in time it will occupy a destined place among the great forward steps of civilization together with the newspaper, the magazine, the radio phone and the automobile.

Youth Kills Self After Shooting Girl

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 4.—Unable to face the world after shooting and seriously wounding pretty Miss Mary Hough, because she refused to marry him, Paul Curran, rejected suitor, is dead today, having taken his own life. Young Curran's body was found late yesterday in a water-filled ditch near the country club drive with a bullet hole through his head. On the body was found a note to his family stating he "was going away for a while."

Wednesday afternoon, when Miss Hough refused to respond to Curran's pleas for her to become his wife, he is said to have shot her three times, and wounded Harry Jensen, who came to her rescue.

Miss Hough was reported resting easily today.

THE GRATITUDE HOG

A few days ago I wrote about the person who will do all sorts of things for her friends, but who rightly grows resentful, and with draws her generosity when they begin to take all she does for granted and to look upon her kindness as a matter of course, instead of something to be grateful for.

One surely sympathizes with this woman and feels that they who lose her generosity get their just deserts.

But I never write about this type of person without remembering that at the other end of the scale is the kind of giver who wants not merely some sign of appreciation but demands a very pound of flesh in gratitude. And I hope that that kind of person did not read what I wrote and take it as justification for his greed for gratitude.

A Lovely Party, But—

Here is the sort of thing I mean.

A young girl whom I know was given a very nice coming out party by her aunt. Her own home is small, the family means have been shrunk by sickness, and her aunt has a large home and a plentiful income and loves to entertain.

The party was a very pretty one and the girl was very grateful. She is a nice girl and the sort who would be grateful and would express her thanks freely and gracefully. And yet some time after the party the aunt told the mother that she ought to teach Ethel to be more grateful for things that were done for her.

When She Struck

"I certainly have," said Ethel, "I stayed after the party that

BEAUTY CHATS

AVOIDING FRECKLES

Most freckle lotions contain one of two powerful ingredients, either corrosive sublimate or bichloride of mercury. These are very effective bleaches and, properly combined with other ingredients, they will make the skin fine and white. These lotions, however, are difficult to make and dangerous to experiment with, for if any mistake were made the lotion might be too strong and the skin burnt or injured. That is why I advocate avoiding freckles, it is easier to avoid than cure them.

Therefore, if you freckle easily and mind it, protect yourself with wide brimmed dark colored hats or carry a parasol on sunny days. It takes away a great deal from the easy enjoyment of life, but that unfortunately cannot be helped.

There are mild bleaches which we all know will cure freckles—buttermilk, which can be rubbed on, lemon juice which must be softened with rose water, cucumber juice which can be used full strength and is easy to make, honey which is bleaching but so sticky it must be combined with other ingredients, almonds which are also bleaching and ideal when combined with honey, and even a lotion made from the common garden parsley.

If the skin is well rubbed with cold cream and liberally powdered it is not apt to freckle when exposed to ordinary sun and wind. But if the skin has been so exposed, prevent freckling is to bathe the face for 10 or 15 minutes in water as hot as can be borne, followed up by a cold cream massage. After this apply some freckle bleaching lotion. A teaspoonful of horse radish scraped into a cup of sour milk is a marvelous help, as nature has already healed the trouble and will set about restoring the outer skin to its normal texture. It will take time but it is best to wait, since the new skin is very sensitive and easily irritated.

All inquiries addressed to Miss Forbes in care of the "Beauty Chats" department will be answered in these columns in their turn. This requires considerable time, however, owing to the great number received. So if personal or quicker reply is desired, a stamped and self-addressed envelope must be enclosed with the question—The Editor.

Russian Navy Being Reorganized; 2 Subs

LONDON.—The Russian navy is being reorganized, and already a few of its ships are at sea. Two submarines are on patrol between Sebastopol and Odessa, but seamen in famine relief ships opine that while these craft are all right on the surface it is doubtful what may happen if they submerge. But while the submarine personnel of the old imperial navy was never large, it is supposed that it may have been supplemented by ratings from Germany.

The soviets have planned maneuvers on a large scale, and fishermen in the Gulf of Finland have been warned to steer clear of the Red fleet.

Diet and Health

I, I, I: MYSELF, I HISTORY OF ME BY ME CHAPTER XX Indications of Trouble

Well, when I left you last week, I told that I would tell you something nice this week—what my nice mama does for me. It is this. She has a lot of seven or eight inch squares of soft cloths made from clean and ironed old sheets and tablecloths, etc., which have served their usefulness for other purposes, and she always puts one of those little squares on my napkin so that when I have a bowel movement, which I do twice or three times a day, none of the movement gets on the napkin proper and so they are easier for the laundress to wash. The little squares, of course, are burned.

I told you last week about what nice fitted napkins I wear now so that I have no big masses of cloth separating my beautiful legs and pressing on my tender organs and pelvis. My doctor will tell you about the patient for them if you will send a self-addressed and stamped envelope through the office to her.

I did not begin to wear this stylish article when I was a tiny baby. My first napkins were made of soft cheesecloth. They were cut a yard square and hemmed, and when folded cornerwise three times, making eight thicknesses, they were just right. Over that, when two napkins were necessary, mama used a triangle of thick turkish toweling. Rubber diapers are harmful on babies and should never be used, my doctor says, unless occasionally for traveling.

Do you know that it is very important that napkins be thoroughly washed and thoroughly rinsed? If the soap is not thoroughly rinsed out, it is very irritating to our tender skins. As soon as my napkins are taken off me, they are taken from the nursery and put in a covered pail of water to soak until the time for the daily wash. They are then thoroughly washed, boiled and thoroughly rinsed, and ironed every day, and they are never under any circumstances put on me until they are very dry.

Sometimes mamas who are not thoughtful, dry the napkins after a baby urinates and then use them again. That is not good to do, for the dried urine may cause chafing.

When Mama or Grammie or

Aunt Sue or Daddy—yes, he does it, too!—when they change my napkins, they always see that I am clean before they put on a fresh one. If I look at all as though I were going to chafe, they wipe me off with a bit of cotton and some oil. If they use water they dry me gently and are very careful not to wipe the bowel movement over my genital organs. That is bad for babies.

Our skins are very tender and we are full of creases, for a normal baby is plump—not fat, oh no; just plump plump—and we get soiled often, until we are trained. These are the reasons we chafe so easily.

Speaking about training, I don't know how that is done yet, but I shall soon begin my lessons for I have heard some rumors of it. Mama keeps some zinc oxide ointment and castor oil, equal parts, mixed together, and if I get at all chafed, she will put some of that on me. She has not had to use it much for, you see, one of the chief reasons of chafing I do not have—that is, sour and irritating stools due to indigestion from some food that was never intended for human babies. As I have told you many times, I have milk that is made especially for me by my own Mama and you can bet she is careful to keep herself in the best condition so my milk is always good.

There is a new baby girl next door. She is the daughter of mama's and papa's dearest friends and college mates. Everybody is so happy in our family over her. I can imagine how much happiness she must have brought to her own family.

We are going to be married when we grow up. That is the plan now.

When Mr. Elliot came rushing in to our house a little while after she came, he grabbed my daddy and hugged him and excitedly said: "Harry, old man, I've got a daughter! It's a girl!"

And Daddy laughed and said: "Good work, old scout, she can be the wife of my son! He's a boy."

Lordy! I guess my troubles have begun.

A. T. Gray Moving Into New Location

A. T. Gray, contractor and builder at 113 East Broadway, is moving to his new location at 209 West Broadway where he will have a much larger space to conduct his business.

Mr. Gray came to California a little over a year ago, and after establishing himself in the building and contracting business, set about doing his share of Glendale's building. His business has now reached a point where large quarters have become absolutely necessary, he says.

The office staff which Mr. Gray has to assist him in the business has been enlarged to meet the additional requirements until it now numbers five persons. With such a force, Mr. Gray has found it necessary to obtain quarters where he will occupy with his business alone.

In addition to building and contracting for homes, Mr. Gray finances building projects, and reports considerable activity in home building.

Uncle Wiggily's Bedtime Stories

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY'S SHOWER BATH

It was such a hot day—oh, such a very hot day, that when Uncle Wiggily started from his hoflow stump bungalow, his muskrat lady housekeeper called:

"Oh, Wiggily! You aren't coming out in the broiling sun, are you?"

The bunny gentleman twinkled his pink nose just the least little bit—for too much twinkling would make him extra warm—and Uncle Wiggily said:

"Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy, my dear, I must have adventures whether the day be hot or cold. That is my answer to you, Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy," and the bunny made a low and polite bow.

"Well, keep in the shade as much as you can," begged the muskrat lady, and Uncle Wiggily said that he would. The sun seemed hotter and hotter as he hopped slowly along, and at last reaching a shady place in the woods Uncle Wiggily stopped to rest.

But, no sooner had he seated himself on a green, mossy log the bunny heard a voice saying:

"But I want to! Oh, I want to so much and I don't see why I can't, Mother!"

"Because you are too little," answered another voice.

Uncle Wiggily folded down his long ears so they would not show over the bushes.

"I must be very careful!" thought the rabbit uncle. "Very likely the first voice I heard was that of a little fox, telling his mother he wanted to nibble me."

And the second voice was that of the old Fuzzy Fox telling the little fox he was too small to chase after me. But the Old Fox may come. I must be very careful!"

Uncle Wiggily was just going to creep out of the bushes and run away when, all of a sudden, there was a rustling in the dried leaves, and Squeakie Squealer, the little baby pig, ran toward him.

"Oh, here's Uncle Wiggily," cried Squeakie Squealer. "Now maybe you'll let me go swimming with him, Mother!"

"Oh, is Uncle Wiggily there?" asked the second voice that had spoken, and along came Mrs. Twistytail, the lady pig.

"I'm so glad you aren't the fox!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "I heard you talking, and telling Squeakie Squealer to wait until he grew bigger, and I thought—"

"Excuse me for interrupting," grunted Squeakie Squealer. "but I want to go swimming. It's so hot I want to go and jump in the water, but mother won't let me. You ask her!"

"Indeed, you have teased me enough about that!" grunted Mrs. Twistytail. "I can't let you go off swimming alone, Squeakie. You might get in deep water and be drowned."

"Oh, dear! It's so hot," sighed the little pig.

"Indeed it is," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "How would you like to have a shower bath, Squeakie?"

"What is a shower bath?" asked the little pig.

"It's like standing out in a rainstorm," answered the bunny. "I'd just love that," said Squeakie Squealer. "But it isn't going to rain," he added, looking up at the bright blue sky where the hot sun shone.

"I'll make you a shower bath and you'll think it's raining," offered Uncle Wiggily. "Have you an old pail, Mrs. Twistytail, and a piece of rope?"

"I think so," answered the pig lady, and when she had given Uncle Wiggily a large tin pail, which she couldn't use any more because it leaked, the bunny took a nail, and a stone, and made a lot of holes in the bottom of the tin pail. Next Uncle Wiggily tossed the rope over a limb of the apple tree, so that the rope could be pulled up and down. On one end of the rope the bunny gentleman tied the pail with the holes in the bottom like the squirting end of a watering can.

"Fill the pail with water, Squeakie, and get your bathing suit on," advised Uncle Wiggily.

"Or, what will be better, you go get into your bathing suit and I'll pour out the water."

When Squeakie came running out, with his cute little red bathing suit on, Uncle Wiggily told him to stand beneath the apple tree. Then the bunny pulled on the rope and hoisted up the pail full of water.

But, of course, when the pail was up in the air, all the water began to run out through the holes Uncle Wiggily had made with the nail.

"Get under the shower!" Get under the shower, Squeakie!" cried Uncle Wiggily, and the little pig did, and he was soon wet through.

"Oh, how lovely and cool it is!" he cried. "You take a shower, too, Uncle Wiggily." And the bunny did, Mrs. Twistytail helping Squeakie pull up the sprinkling can pail. Then it was Mrs. Twistytail's turn, and she had a shower bath also, so they were made lovely and cool.

And, after a while the bad old Wiggily Wolf came sneaking along to nibble Uncle Wiggily's ears. But as the Wolf walked under the apple tree, Squeakie suddenly raised up the pail, full of water, and it splashed all over the bad chap.

"Oh, it's raining! It's pouring! I must run home!" howled the Wolf, and home he ran, not hurting the bunny at all. And if the phonograph will sing the gold fish to sleep in the cat's cradle, and then play tag with the piano, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the berries.

They Say That

In the heart of Northampton county, Pa., one of the original counties of the commonwealth, there is a tract of rolling country that once formed "The Barony of Nazareth." Lady Letitia, the daughter of William Penn, was the first ruler of the Barony. From the grantor she had the privilege of holding "Court Baron." It was held in trust for her by the good friend of her father, Sir John Fagg. But her title to the Barony became more secure by the deed dated September 25, 1731, when her half-brothers, John Penn, Thomas Penn and Richard Penn, released to her all their rights, title and interest in the Barony.

However, there was consideration in this deed which called for the yearly payment of "One Red Rose" by the Lady Letitia to the grantors. This red rose was to be given on every June 24 in full for all services, customs and rents.

The old customs of the Barony were of not a long life, for in the summer of 1741, the tract was sold to the Moravians. They not only purchased the Barony, but colonized the borough of Nazareth, situated about the center of the large tract of land. The Moravians lived here somewhat after the manner of the primitive Christians—in an Economy. The Economy which had been established in the Barony had no communis-movements. But when the spirit which animated its founders began to decline, it ceased being a help to the church, and soon thereafter was dissolved in 1762. Previous to this, however, in accordance with the orders from the Mother Church of Saxony, a large frame caravansary was built in the Barony. A noble inn it held in trust for her by the good friend of her father, Sir John Fagg. But her title to the Barony became more secure by the deed dated September 25, 1731, when her half-brothers, John Penn, Thomas Penn and Richard Penn, released to her all their rights, title and interest in the Barony.

It is duly recorded in the archives of the Moravian church that on the night of November 18, 1755, the Barony was shaken to its foundations and, although the sky overhead was star-lit, still an awful rushing of the wind was experienced and the distant sound of booming cannon was heard. This pandemonium was at its height, when lo! the doors of the Rose swung on their hinges and stood open, and the sleepers in the inn were rocked in their beds. It will be remembered that it was during the first part of this very month of November 60,000 persons perished violently in the frightful Lisbon earthquake.

Eventually the Indian troubles of the frontiers changed the Barony into a place of refuge, and the dangerousness of the times gave it a martial air. After 1757 to a comparatively late date, the Barony enjoyed peace. In 1783 the Rose was plucked from its ancestral stem, for it was sold by the Moravian Society to Dorst Allen, but before it had faded entirely it was honored by a week's visit of Governor John Penn to shoot grouse on the neighboring barrens.

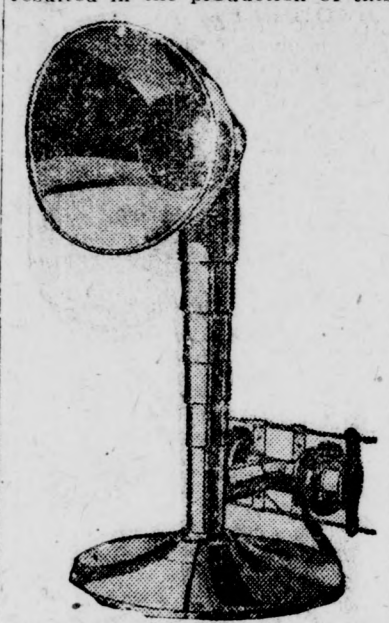

From 1850 large and frequent sales of lots and tracts of land have been made by the Moravian society from the larger tract once considered the Barony of Nazareth. These sales, and the rough and ever active hand of Time have almost obliterated the courses of the old Barony. The old Red Rose, once the pride of the Barony, has long since ceased to bloom. The Moravian Society still owns a portion of the old Barony, but most of the old landmarks have been laid low by the iron hand of ruthless corporations. In the fierce flood of the coal and iron trade which sweeps down the Lehigh Valley, through Northampton county, the romantic historical facts which cluster around this section of the country are almost swept away.

APPARATUS AND DEVICES

By RALPH BROWN, RADIO ENGINEER

A TELEPHONIC LOUD SPEAKER

A careful study of acoustics has resulted in the production of this loud speaker. Material consists of spun fiber brass. Telephones are inserted on sound chambers and clamped there by an ingenious device allowing no escape of sound vibrations. Tone arm runs at right angle and fits into horn. Latter consists of overlapping sections, each one an acoustic chamber, the diameter increasing until the bell is reached. Latter is so designed that overtones are done away with. The main acoustic features are a perfected sound chamber with a graduated series of ten others, each increasing the resonance of tone. In addition there are two sound projectors on the bell, one augmenting the one behind. They are made according to sound curves and this type is patented. The instrument is finished either in nickel or brass. The base is also of the same material and is large enough to furnish a firm stand. The results claimed for this instrument by the manufacturer are surprising. Not only does the tiny sound disappear but all tones are given their natural resonance. The price is very reasonable and compares very favorably with other loud speakers. Telephones are not included.

RADIO EXPLAINED

By E. H. LEWIS
INSTRUCTOR NEW YORK Y.M.C.A. RADIO SCHOOL

PRODUCTION OF BEATS WITH SEPARATE HETERODYNE

The circuit diagram shows the secondary circuit of a receiver connected on a vacuum tube detector and, in addition, a vacuum tube oscillation generating circuit coupled to the closed oscillatory, or secondary circuit of the receiver. The frequency of the oscillations is controlled by the variable condenser shown connected across the grid and plate coils of the oscillator. Oscillations will, of course, be induced in the secondary circuit by the oscillator and will be of maximum strength when the secondary is in resonance, other things being equal. The coupling between the oscillator and the secondary circuit will also, of course, affect the strength of the induced oscillations.

Imagine that a signal is picked up when the antenna circuit is in resonance with a distant sending station of a wave length of 3,000 meters and suppose that the oscillator is not being operated. If the sending station is transmitting with undamped or continuous waves no signal is heard in the head telephones because the plate current variations are smoothed out and are of too high frequency at any rate to produce an audible sound. This would happen even though the secondary were accurately tuned to resonance with the incoming oscillations whose frequency in the case of a 3,000 meter wave would be 100,000 cycles. The undamped oscillations would not produce audible sound in the head telephones whatever their frequency might be.

But now let us tune the oscillator circuit and start the generation of continuous oscillations at a frequency of, say 99,000 cycles. The tuned secondary circuit connected to the grid and filament is not in resonance with the oscillator, but the latter will nevertheless induce oscillations of 99,000 cycle frequency in it. They will be forced oscillations. There are then oscillations of two frequencies—100,000 and 99,000 cycles—which add together to produce a third frequency of 1,000 cycles, the difference between the other two. The oscillations acting upon the grid and therefore the plate current variations have a frequency of 1,000 cycles, which is called a beat frequency. This frequency is within the audible limits and when rectified or apparently rectified by the tube results in audible sound in the head telephones. The telephone diaphragms vibrate at a rate of 1,000 times per second and the sound heard has a musical tone. If the oscillator frequency were made 100,000 cycles no beats would be produced and no sound would be heard in the telephones. The beat frequency would be zero. But if the oscillator frequency were increased to 101,000 cycles the beat frequency would again be 1,000 cycles and produce the same audible sound as before. The beat frequency is always the numerical difference between that of the received oscillations and those locally generated in the oscillator. If the beat frequency is varied within audible limits by varying the oscillator frequency slightly, the tone of the signals may be varied.

"It's a Cleek Story"...

The RIDDLE of The FROZEN FLAMES

By M. E. & T. W. Hanshaw

Considered to be the best of the famous HAMILTON CLEEK Serials whose international reputation is comparable only to that of Sherlock Holmes.

Adventure, mystery, suspense, romance, quick action—all the essentials of a rapid-fire detective serial, are to be found to a supreme degree in this masterly story of flames that kill but do not burn, and of men whose courage and daring drive them out in the night toward the frozen flames and who never return.

This Remarkable Story Will Appear Exclusively in The Glendale Evening News, Starting Monday, August 7.

Start With the First Chapter; Don't Miss a Single Issue

An Outline of the Story

Sir Nigel Merriton had just come into possession of an old house in the country through the disappearance of an uncle, and being unable to sleep the first night he sat at the window and watched a group of small flames that danced merrily far across the fens. Their curious appearance led him to tell Borkins, the butler, that he intended to investigate, but the consternation and terror of Borkins amazed him. "For Gawd's sake, sir—DON'T," he implored. "You're a dead man in the morning if you do."

Sharp questioning elicited the story that for several years these lights had been seen nightly, although the place showed nothing by day, and that at least three people who had gone in the night to explore had never returned, and their bodies had never been found.

Merriton had other interests in his courtship of a pretty neighbor, Antoinette Brellier, and thought little of the matter until it was brought home to him. He gave a bachelor party to announce his engagement to Antoinette and one of his guests was Dacre Wynne, a disappointed suitor of the same girl. Wynne was a man of bitter and vindictive disposition and behaved with studied insult to Merriton during the dinner. Hearing the story of the Frozen Flames he accused his host of cowardice in not having personally cleared up the mystery, and announced that he would find it out that very night. This led to a violent quarrel between him and Merriton, and inflamed with drink and rage, Wynne left, promising to return at midnight.

At dawn a search party was organized and the fens thoroughly scoured, but he had completely disappeared.

Deeply distressed, Sir Nigel engaged Hamilton Cleek, the famous Scotland Yard man to unravel the mystery, and Cleek and his man Dollops came down to stop at the house in the guise of a casual visitor and his servant. On the first night an attempt was made to kill him as he slept. On the next day, with a searching party he discovered the body of Dacre Wynne, shot through the head with a bullet that fitted Sir Nigel's revolver, from which one bullet was missing. At the inquest, Borkins, the butler, testified that he had seen Sir Nigel shoot Wynne. Hamilton Cleek, himself, ordered Merriton's arrest for murder. Antoinette Brellier volunteered that she also owned a pistol of the same unusual make and caliber as Merriton's and that there was a BULLET MISSING IN IT ALSO.

Then, with Sir Nigel in prison awaiting trial, and Merriton Towers left in charge of Borkins, Hamilton Cleek set out to find the explanation of the Frozen Flames.

Dressed in rough sailors' clothing and speaking the language of thieves and smugglers, Cleek and Dollops found work in a factory near the fens. Here, through sheer daredevilry and shrewdness they found out the secret that set Sir Nigel free, and the secret of the Frozen Flames.

DOZEN CANDIDATES ASPIRE TO GOVERNORSHIP IN OHIO

Nine Republicans and Three Democrats Engaged in Bitter Political Fight

LIST OF THE CANDIDATES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 3.—Following is a complete list of senatorial and gubernatorial candidates seeking election in the Ohio primaries:

FOR GOVERNOR—Republicans: Colonel Carmi A. Thompson, Cleveland, steel manufacturer and lawyer; Senator Arthur H. Day, Cleveland, war veteran and lawyer; Congressman Charles H. Knight, Akron publisher; Harvey C. Smith, Zanesville, lawyer and publisher; Rupert R. Beetham, Cadiz, banker and legislator; Daniel W. Williams, Jackson, editor and publisher; C. Homer Durand, Coshocton, lawyer; J. W. Durnell, Columbus, bond salesman; G. W. Wood, Sandusky, civil war veteran and inmate of the Veterans' Home.

Democrats: A. V. Donahay, New Philadelphia, printer and manufacturer; Judge James G. Johnson, Springfield, judge of state supreme court; Thomas J. Duffy, East Liverpool, chairman of state industrial commission.

FOR SENATOR—Republicans: Simon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, Congressional incumbent; Charles F. Dick, Akron lawyer and capitalist; John H. Arnold, Columbus, lawyer.

Democrats: Senator Atlee Pomerene, Canton, now serving second term; John J. Lentz, Columbus, lawyer and former congressman.

By WILLIAM J. HUSKE
For International News Service.

CLEVELAND, Aug. 4.—With twelve gubernatorial candidates beating the bushes in all sections of Ohio for votes in the state-wide primaries which will be held August 8, President Harding's home state today is the scene of the hottest and most bitterly fought primary since the inauguration of the system here in 1914.

Rupert R. Beetham, of Cadiz, present Speaker of the Ohio house of representatives, is known as the "farmer candidate." His principal promises are for a reform in taxation methods and the injection of "more business and less bunk" into the ship of state. He hails from the southeastern section of the state and will receive powerful support there and will also secure many votes in other parts of the state.

Williams Is Aggressive
Daniel Webster Williams, of Jackson, a county seat in the hills of southern Ohio, where he is editor and publisher of a country weekly, is making an aggressive campaign. His son, Ben Ames Williams, the well known author, has assumed active management of his father's campaign in the state. Williams was prominent in the progressive movement of 1912, making the race for congress and later was a candidate for lieutenant-governor on the Bull Moose ticket.

C. Homer Durand, a Coshocton lawyer, is running upon a beer and light wines platform. Apparently, however, his campaign is not making the impression that was expected when he announced his candidacy, as thus far he is without the support of any committee in the larger cities, where wet strength is supposed to be greatest.

J. W. Durnell, an ex-Columbus bond salesman, and G. W. Wood, a veteran of the Civil war, complete the list of candidates for the Republican nomination. Thus far neither of these has apparently done anything to advance his candidacy beyond the filing of his declaration.

On the Democratic side three candidates are making aggressive campaigns, and each professes confidence in the result.

Failing in efforts to induce former Governor Judson Harmon, of Cincinnati, to become a candidate, the Cuyahoga county organization, headed by former Secretary of War Newton D. Baker, induced Judge James G. Johnson, of Springfield, now serving his second term on the Supreme bench of the state, to forego another term in the state's highest court and enter the fight for the nomination. Judge Johnson is receiving the support of many of the party workers, who regard the other candidates with disfavor for one reason or another.

Donahay Defeated Once
A. V. ("Vic") Donahay, of New Philadelphia, former state auditor, who ran nearly 300,000 votes ahead of his ticket but was defeated in the presidential year of 1920 by Governor Harry L. Davis, is again a candidate, as is Thomas J. Duffy, chairman of the state

Joseph Goldberg to Install Shoe Shop

Of importance to fanciers of footwear is the announcement that Joseph Goldberg this week-end is launching in business for himself at No. 3, new Court Shops, 211-213 East Broadway, where he is installing a shoe store, the formal opening to take place later when complete stocks have arrived.

Mr. Goldberg studied the anatomy of the foot at the University of Wisconsin and is a graduate of the American School of Podiatry in Chicago. He has had charge of the shoe departments in several stores and has been connected with two large eastern firms of national reputation.

More recently Mr. Goldberg has been employed here and has learned the needs of the community. He is handling only high-grade bench-made shoes and featuring the full line of Dr. Scholl's foot and comfort appliances. Special arrangements have been made with manufacturers to facilitate the fitting of unusual feet, he states.

Microbes are never found on gold coin; paper money is an ideal harboring place for them.

ZANE GREY STORY, PICTURIZED, NOW AT GLENDALE

"Mysterious Rider" Proves Something Different for Satisfying Patrons

One of the greatest actors of either stage or screen today has a powerful and totally "different" role in "The Mysterious Rider," the newest Hodkinson release, from the novel by Zane Grey, which is the attraction at the Glendale Theatre today and tomorrow. That actor is Robert McKim, justly famous with motion picture goers for his "heavy" roles of the past and now reaching a new fame in bigger, finer, more sympathetic roles.

Mr. McKim plays "Wade," the title part in "The Mysterious Rider." He begins as a character surrounded by mystery, and all the mystery is not solved until the action of the startling climatic scenes, where he ascends to great emotional heights. "Wade" has been following the vague trail of the man he has sworn to kill some day, and at the same time is searching for his daughter. The way he finds this man, and the daughter, is startling and dramatic in the extreme.

After this discovery comes a great hand-to-hand struggle in which Mr. McKim is a principal. This is followed by emotional scenes of a variety and tensely seldom seen on the shadowstage.

Tokio Fighting to Reduce Cost Living

TOKIO—The city of Tokio has entered the field actively to lessen the burdens of high prices for the poor people. Like food and clothing and other things the rents in Tokio continue unreasonably high; in many cases higher than at any time during the war boom. It is in this way that the city hopes to give the greatest help to the laboring people. Two large rooming houses already have been constructed in the slum districts. Each will house about 200 persons, and the price is only five sen (about 2½ cents) a night. Food also is served at cost at these places. In nearly every ward the city has also established municipal markets, where rice, fish and the vegetables and pickles that form a part of the Japanese meal may be purchased cheaper than elsewhere. The city bath houses, however, have made the greatest hit with the people; a reasonable price for the daily bath appears to be more appreciated than cheap food.

The Telephone Instrument

The telephone is a highly sensitive, delicately adjusted instrument. Think of it—without regard to distance, instantaneously reproducing every tone of the human voice.

The quality of its service, in great measure, depends upon careful use.

As with your watch, automobile or piano—the more care, better results.

Among the "out of order" reports received by the company, many result from the carelessness of the subscriber. A telephone may fall from desk or stand, breaking the mouthpiece or throwing the apparatus out of adjustment. The cord may become twisted, meaning a "noisy" line. A damp cloth laid on the cord or the moisture from an open window may cause the "short circuit" and an entire interruption of service.

All of these things are avoidable with the exercise of slight care. In protecting the telephone equipment you are protecting your own service.

THE SPENDERS BLOCKED

As state treasurer, Friend W. Richardson has learned how the state's money is being squandered and knows how to effect retrenchment Friend W. Richardson, candidate for the republican nomination for governor, has greater strength than any other candidate who has ever run for state office in California. There are few, if any, editors of country newspapers who are not supporting Richardson, excepting the papers whose editors have been remembered with state jobs of one kind or another or are in political positions that make their support of Richardson impracticable.

Richardson has been president of the state press association, which is made up largely of country newspapermen, for the past twenty years. During that period of time he has fought their fights at Sacramento, whenever there was unjust legislation attempted that would have deprived many of them of their rights. He has been in charge of many an editorial excursion, attended by hundreds of editors and their families, and his management of these trips has been masterly, showing the same high executive ability that was displayed when he was the owner of the Berkeley Gazette, when he was state printer and finally when he became state treasurer.

We have recently read many editorial comments from papers in every part of California friendly to Richardson. Of these the following in the Watsonville Pajaronian is a fair sample: "The Pajaronian will support and do everything it honorably can to secure the republican nomination for governor for Friend W. Richardson, at present state treasurer."

"The reason that we will support him is that he has promised, if elected, to use his utmost endeavor to cut down the enormous burden of state taxation that the taxpayers are at present staggering under."

"It will be remembered that our present Governor W. D. Stephens, made his last campaign on a platform of economy, and promised to do all he could to lift the burden from our backs. Did he do it? Well, hardly. In order to provide for the enormous burden of taxes that confronts us, he evolved the King Bill, which merely shifted the burden onto the corporations, and the corporations would make us pay every cent of it back to them in increased costs. Instead of endeavoring to lighten the burden by doing away with some of the many state commissions that, like Sinbad's 'old man of the sea,' are around our necks, Stephens' method was the King Bill, which the corporations will not submit to until the last legal expedient has been exhausted. The matter is now in the higher courts and is likely to be there for a long, long time."

"In the meantime the taxpayers are bearing the burden."

"Richardson has said that if elected he will do his utmost to lighten this burden, and if there is any man in the state that knows where to place his finger on the festering sores, it is this same Friend W. Richardson."

"Originally, the state printer, in which he made so many reforms and raised that institution to so high a standard, as to cause general commendation. Richardson was appointed by Governor Johnson to the position as state treasurer. To that responsible position he brought the same attention to detail, and careful management, that marked his course in the state printing office, and it is one of the offices in the state administration that stands high in public esteem, owing to the manner in which Richardson has managed it."

"A keen, observing man is Richardson; withal an intellectual gentleman whom it is a pleasure to know. During his incumbency as state treasurer, he has become thoroughly familiar with the ins and outs of the state government. His position has brought him directly into contact with the many problems that confront the gubernatorial office. He is highly equipped for the governor's chair."

"This man says that if the people will put him into the governor's office he will endeavor to help us taxpayers out. Well, it is worth a trial, is it not? We cannot expect much from Stephens. He has been tried, and in our opinion has not made good on his promises."

"Briefly summed up, Mr. Taxpayer, the case is this: The state's expenses during 1921 exceeded sixty-five millions of dollars, which the taxpayers had to meet—one way or another. If you want this condition to continue, vote for Stephens. If you want a change, a lightening of this burden, vote for Richardson!"

Cannot Cancel War Debts, Reply of U. S.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 3.—There can never be a general cancellation of international war debts on a basis of equality among the nations of the world, so far as the United States is concerned.

This flat announcement came from the treasury department today in the shape of an informal reply to the Balfour note in which Great Britain virtually recommends such a proceeding.

Not only does this view represent the policy of the treasury department, but it is also the views of the American funding commission which congress created for the express purpose of collection—not cancelling—of the $11,000,000,000 that the European governments owe the United States.

Turtle Racing Fad Of Children in Ohio

CINCINNATI.—Turtle racing is one of the favorite sports at the Kroger-Hills camp for children, near Terrace park, the youngsters catching their entries in nearby creeks and cheering wildly as one or the other of the favorites forges ahead. Two hundred feet is the longest distance "run" and almost an hour is required to finish the course even for the swiftest of the hard-shelled racers.

The youngsters christen their turtles after noted race horses, so that "Morvich," "Whiskaway," "Exterminator," "Miss Joy" and "Firebrand" are common names in the unique turf classics. At times as many as a hundred turtles are entered in the race, their "jockeys" following them across the course and keeping them headed for the tape.

A. H. Barnes Host At Birthday Dinner

Members and former members of the Circle Real Estate company were the guests Tuesday night of A. H. Barnes of that company at his home on North Adams place. The affair was a stag party in expensiveness during 1921 exceeded sixty-five millions of dollars, which the taxpayers had to meet—one way or another. If you want this condition to continue, vote for Stephens. If you want a change, a lightening of this burden, vote for Richardson!"

Lords Win 16-Cent Suits From Tenants

LONDON.—Two Lords have successfully sued their tenants for sixteen cents, deducted from their rent on account of postage and check stamp rates.

Claiming that if all the 800 tenants deducted similar money from their rents a great loss would be sustained by them, Lord William Cecil and Lord John Cecil contended that it was the duty of debtors to bring money due to creditors. The judge decided in favor of the Lords, declaring that stamps, check stamps, paper and envelopes should be provided by the tenants.

Police Investigate Pretty Girl's Death

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 3.—Police today investigated the events leading up to the death of Olive Howard, young and pretty, who died on her way to the emergency hospital following a gay party at several north beach cafes. John Anson, who took her to the hospital, was held on a minor charge pending the investigation, although physicians at the hospital expressed the belief her death was due to natural causes, heart trouble probably having been aggravated by the excitement of the evening.

W. D. LATHROP ONE WHO CAST VOTE FOR LINCOLN

Member of N. P. Banks Post, Shook Hands With 'Honest Abe'

Recollection of Abraham Lincoln is a very vivid memory to W. D. Lathrop, member of the N. P. Banks post, G. A. R., who recalls a "close-up" and hearty handshake with the great president at the headquarters of Company E, Massachusetts Infantry, Ninth Army corps, just after the surrender of Petersburg.

"Yes, I saw Lincoln," said Mr. Lathrop; "it was on the morning after the surrender of Petersburg. He was on his way to Petersburg and stopped near our headquarters. He had on his tall hat and with him his two sons, Robert and Tad, and his escort. He gave me a hearty handshake and a pat on the back."

Voted for Lincoln
"I also voted for him while at the front—I think it was near Nashville, Tenn. All boys in the service had a chance to vote at that time."

"When we heard of the assassination of our beloved president we were mad clear through, and furious, and had there been a battle pending we could have licked the rebels, and the whole world for that matter, and then some."

Waiters Amazed at Man's Consumption

JOPLIN, MO.—"Just wanted a snack of food before I went home to dinner," explained Charles Enos, of this city, after waiters in a restaurant had watched him eat twelve hamburger sandwiches and two slices of pie. In addition to these Enos drank three cups of coffee and two glasses of water. Enos completed the "job" in twenty minutes, declaring he was in a hurry to get home for dinner. Housewives in Mrs. Enos' community are considering marching to her home in a body to extend their sympathy.

PLANS TO REVAMP MELODRAMA OF YEARS AGO

Lincoln J. Carter, Father of Thrillers, Proposes to Stage 'Come Back'

NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—"If you will leave this wretched hovel with me, I will clothe you in silks and diamonds. Horses and carriages will be at your summoning." The villain thus tempted the pure, white heroine.

"But she spurned him. 'Rags are royal raiment when worn for virtue's sake,' declared she of the alabaster brow, turning from the grip of the black-mustached villain."

That was a long time ago, when Lincoln J. Carter, "father of the meller-drammer," was turning out thrillers. For the last fourteen years, since the movie crept into his field, he has retired to a twenty-two-acre farm in Goshen, Ill. He is now staging a "come-back" and is shortly to have the fun of watching the very film companies that killed his own production employing a hundred people to do the work he accomplished with fourteen combined actors and stage hands in the old days.

Get Thrill, What?

"Some kinds of melodrama are never going to die," declared Mr. Carter when he appeared in New York recently to place his name on a movie contract. "If I could take my big scenic effects and reword them up-to-date language and put them in the hands of high-class actors, I believe a Broadway audience would get as much of a thrill out of them as the old-timers in Hicksville used to."

"Modern melodrama has to be a dignified production and cannot be thrown together with cheap actors. The kind we used to put on in the 25-cent to a dollar circuits simply went out of vogue, like long skirts and puffed sleeves."

For the thirty-eight successful melodramas which he turned out in fifteen years, Mr. Carter used the old-style prescriptions for his cast, depending on steamboat explosions, tornadoes and train wrecks for his plots. "As for the actors," the playwright explained, "the villain generally wore a vicious black mustache and checked vest. He was always after the heroine or 'the papers.' The hero was a handsome milk-fed idiot, quite blind when it came to observing his enemies slipping up behind. Our heroine was so mushy and soft, you could put a cat's tail through her. Then there was always a snappy young soubrette to mix things up for the villain."

Changes Necessary
"Now we have to change the make-up completely. The villain is toned down as to his decorations, is a little more human and has to be more carefully worked into the plot. The hero is stronger, but he still has to be beautiful. As for the heroine—rights for women worked wonders with her. The soubrette is still there playing the ingenue role. Scatter a few airplanes and automobiles in and you get the same thrills."

Mr. Carter can reconcile himself to replacing the one-horse melodrama with the six-cylinder variety, but one thing he can't see is elimination of virtue.

"When I was producing plays the public wouldn't stand for the triumph of villainy," he declared. "Clean virtue had to come out on top in the end. Now we have almost made the villains heroes."

"Canned melodrama is never going to be like old times," he explained. "At the end of the startling speeches, we used to write in a pause when the audience clapped. The actors expected that applause as much as their salary."

"Now the most you can get out of the spectators is some woman remarking, 'Isn't he a darling?' or 'Wasn't that cute?'"

"The booming of the gallery is a thing of the past. So also is the actor who used to turn to and help with the scenic effects. I can remember when the leading woman blew the flash torch, the hero beat the thunder-drum and the soubrette turned the wind-machine. Now the union hands would wait out 'if such came to pass again.'"

Webster defines bacterium: Microscopic organism of various forms and shapes; a disease germ.

COMMENT THAT'S ALL

Back to the Old Grind
How About S. P. Depot?
Who Benefits From It?
Suggestions Solicited

By Gil A. Cowan

GETTING back to the old grind of commenting on this, that and the other thing locally is a pretty tough job, folks, after one has been galavanting all over this fair state, as the Chamber of Commerce publicity experts would say.

Truth is, the state is in good condition and at no place does a visitor hear much of a wail, although Sacramento and San Diego could enjoy a few more tourists. However, other crops are good in the north and the southern city has passed through a crisis safely and now has a payroll—which we have mentioned before—to depend upon.

So it is back to Glendale that we are—the whitest white spot of the white spot of the country from what they say both going and coming!

While we have been away other people have had ideas to pass along and gradually we will work off the accumulation of correspondence, albeit the dust from behind the ears and get to bed early for a week to recuperate from the languid feeling gained by a good vacation.

A property owner on Gardena avenue—just look on the map and see where that is—makes a very good point when she says that I'd like to see a Comment about the unsightly conditions that greet the newcomers who get off the Southern Pacific trains at the old Tropico station now labeled Glendale.

"Weeds, trash and rubbish are all around. The station is unkempt, so is it any wonder that the tourist who comes to Glendale stays only because the next train doesn't stop? Now just who is to blame—the city or the Southern Pacific company?"

There's the question, folks: "Who's to blame?" Darned if I know, but it looks like both the city fathers, who stand for the insult, and the Southern Pacific officials who perpetuate that station ought to be made to use the station for a month every morning and night.

If the Southern Pacific would get right busy and do the right thing by Glendale—and it has promised to do so—it would raze that old wreck of a building at once. It will surprise you to know that they have the material in stock in Los Angeles today for a new depot, but the company is waiting for a donation.

It was tritely said at yesterday's meeting of the Eastside Advancement association that digging down into one's pocket is all right, but the person to be benefited most should dig down first. Well, if the Southern Pacific will not benefit by having a decent place for Hollywood, Pasadena and Glendale people to board the northbound trains here, we don't know who will.

There is another thing down in the southern section of the city that interests me, for we must always watch for progress.

William Griffin, that plumber man who invests his profits in real property which he improves, is having a market building erected on the 97 feet of frontage adjoining his shop on San Fernando road, near Windsor.

Now that is little more than a news item, but William has a puzzle for someone who is a good riddle guesser to solve.

At the rear of his market building there is going to be what he terms a tea garden in which no tea will be served. They used to call it a beer garden back in Milwaukee, Cincinnati and St. Louis years ago, but there is no more beer.

So, if anyone has a better suggestion than "Beverage Bower," send it to Mr. Griffin with our compliments.

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Bring Back Color and Lustre to Hair

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray or streaked, just an application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients at a small cost, all ready for use. It is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound. This can always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.—Advertisement.

Mrs. Opal Greenwalt Writes Letter of Appreciation for Use of Office

The numerous Glendale residents who have passed through the doors of The Evening News office at some time during the past few weeks to register for the coming election, made the acquaintance of Mrs. Opal O. Greenwalt, of 408 Oak street, who is deputy registrar and had charge of the registration desk located in The News office.

Mrs. Greenwalt has written The News a letter of appreciation saying:

"I wish to thank The Glendale Evening News for the courtesy offered to the voters of this valley by the privilege of using your cheery and centrally-located office as a definite place for voters to come to sign their affidavits of registration."

Widely Circulated
"I am sure I am voicing the sentiment of the several hundred citizens from all parts of the valley, who invariably heartily commended The Glendale Evening News for making it a most agreeable task to register, as well as giving to them the information through the columns."

"The Evening News is evidently a much-read and far-reaching organ, not only of Glendale and vicinity, but of the entire valley, which indicates its motive is to give service for the good of humanity."

LOCAL SQUAD HAS SPEEDY BUNCH TO BEAT SUNDAY

Merchants, With 12 Out of 14 Wins, Due for Hard Game on Sunday

With an aggregation which is rated as one of the best in the southland in the semi-professional class, the Cleary Athletic Baseball club is going to furnish a hard battle for the Glendale Merchants when the two teams clash on the local diamond Sunday afternoon.

Glendale is beginning to be rated as one of the top notches in Southern California, due to the splendid showing which the team has made this year. The Merchants have won twelve out of fourteen games played, rolling up for themselves an average of .857, after playing against the best teams with which Manager "Ty" Cobb could secure bookings.

Some Old-Timers
But the Cleary organization is an old time bunch, numbering among its present and former players a number of big leaguers. Until recently, when the Glendale Merchants began to loom upon the horizon as a possible championship team, Cobb hadn't a chance in the world to book the Clearys for a game, the latter having no time to play with untied aggregations. It is the meteoric rise of the Merchants in the semi-professional baseball world which has made possible the staging of the game which is to be played off at Park avenue and San Fernando Road at 3 o'clock Sunday.

The lineup for the Clearys, as announced at present, is: Armstrong, ss; Schmitt, 1b; Adams, 1b; Berkner, cf; Rollett, rf; Dahm, 2b; McVey, 3b; Hastings, c; Trautwein, p.

Bender is touted as a star centerfielder, and is reputed to wield a wicked stick. He will have to go some, however, to go past the husky Babe King, catcher for the locals, who last Sunday rolled up a batting average for the game of .400, driving out five hits in the five times he was at bat.

Whirlwind Kid
Trautwein is the whirlwind kid pitcher who hurled for the Lincoln high school team in Los Angeles during the 1921 season. He is said to have developed an even better delivery than that which he was sliding down the groove at that time.

Sunday is Walt Heidler's turn to pitch, according to dope, but it is rather expected that Wes Aageson, former Glendale Union high school pitcher, will occupy the mound instead. This, it is stated, is for the purpose of giving Aggie another chance to match his skill with that of the Angeleno's.

Locals' Lineup
The Merchants' lineup for Sunday is: Flanders, 2b; Wilson, ss; King, c; Bell, 1b; Acosta, 3b; Buck, 1b; Cummings, cf; Cobb, rf; Aageson or Heidler, p.

This marks the beginning of a different class of baseball efforts are being made by Manager Cobb and a number of Glendale men to get a good crowd out. Although "Ty" cannot guarantee a victory, he does promise a hard fought game, and one well worth coming to see.

The lover sees in the glance of his beloved the same beauty that in the sunset paints the western skies.

Hoover and Kelly In Exhibition Race Is Plan of Friends

By DAVIS J. WALSH
For International News Service.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 4.—Just to add a little vinegar to the hors d'oeuvres, some disinterested citizens hereabouts are attempting to bring together Jack Kelly of Philadelphia, Olympic champion, single sculler, and Walter M. Hoover, of Duluth, world's champion, in an exhibition race that would bring to a close that golden jubilee national championship regatta here tomorrow.

The proposal is a backwash of Hoover's withdrawal from the senior singles championship race and the consequent disappointment of the local rowing colony, which wanted to see Paul Costello, of Vesper, take another whirl at the man who won the gold challenge cup here some months ago and then went to England to win the Diamond sculls in a lazy paddle.

Meanwhile the program for today holds much in the way of interest. Hoover has given the officials to understand that he will be a starter in the seniors' singles quarter-mile dash against W. E. Garrett Gilmore and Tom Rooney, of Philadelphia; Louis Soha, of New York, and August Mueckler, of St. Louis.

In the association senior singles Hilton Belye, the poor but honest fisherman of St. Johns, N. B., will endeavor to qualify for the championship singles tomorrow.

The opposition will be furnished by Gilmore and Mueckler, both of whom entertain ambitions similar to those of the 48-year-old seafarer from the Canadian banks.

Today's program also includes the senior 150-pound double shell, intermediate four-oared shells, intermediate single shells, senior four-oared shells, intermediate quadruple shells and intermediate eight-oared shells.

Miss Bancroft Wins Her Way Into Finals

SEABRIGHT, N. J., Aug. 4.—

Miss Leslie Bancroft of the Long Wood Cricket club, Boston, yesterday won her way into the final round of the Seabright women's singles bowl by a decisive victory over Miss Helen Willis, the 15-year-old champion, in straight sets, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. Molla B. Mallory of New York and Miss Phyllis Walsh of Overbrook, Pa., defeated Miss Edith Handy, and Miss Florence Ballin, of New York, and advanced to the semi-final round in the women's doubles, 6-3, 6-3.

Mrs. Mallory defeated Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, San Francisco, 6-3, 6-2.

In the semi-final round, William M. Johnston beat Robert Kinsey, 6-1, 6-4; R. Norris Williams, H., beat F. T. Hunter, 6-2, 9-7.

ONCE GREAT FORESTS

Abundant fossil flora found in rock beds in North Dakota shows that what is now a treeless plain was once covered with splendid forests of hardwoods, interspersed with conifers. Numerous and thick beds of lignite make it clear that in this region there were great swamps at one time. Fossil trees and a fan palm with leaves six feet across indicate that the climate was as warm or warmer than that now prevailing on the South Atlantic slope of the United States.

Genuine courtesy springs from the heart, not from the lips.

RALPH MYERS TO BATTLE KENDIG NEXT TUESDAY

Brother of Fireman Johnny On Program to Meet Burbank Fighter

What is expected to be the feature of the Modern Woodmen of America boxing carnival next Tuesday night is the bout between Ralph Myers of Glendale and Howard Kendig of Burbank. The match is to be held at the I. O. F. hall on West Broadway, beginning at 8:15 p. m. on Tuesday, August 8.

Ralph, who is a "kid" brother of Johnny Myers, Glendale's fireman fighter, has fought Kendig twice, and the two bouts are still being talked of in local fight circles. One resulted in a draw, and in the other Ralph defeated Kendig in a close match. Dope on the forthcoming bout, which will be the third between the two, gives no odds on either one.

Johnny Myers himself is on the program with one Young Stone, who seems to be a sort of "dark horse" in Glendale boxing chatter. However, some predict that the dark horse may turn out to be a mile with an awful wallop. One thing seems to be sure—that Johnny is going to have a tough time convincing Stone that the stars are shining for him alone.

Kid Essick, who, at the last Woodmen affair, put his opponent out of the running in two rounds, is another of the prominent ones on the card. The Kid is training, and for a long time has been boxing under the direction of Johnny Myers, it is understood. He certainly shows the effects of skillful training.

Raw Meat Eater

The Kid was to have met one Whirlwind Kelly, but after a try-out of the latter's ability, it was found that he was not in Essick's class at all, so a more vicious opponent was sought. It is announced that the right individual has been found in King of Burbank, and the latter has been scheduled to meet Kid Essick of Glendale as one of the evening's features.

Another bout is the match to be put on by Tommy Morgan and Young Sullivan, both of Glendale. Tommy was one of the principals in the last Woodmen boxing affair, and it is stated that he has since been undergoing systematic training, and is in much better shape than he then was.

Other matches are also to be included on the program, and between the otherwise inactive waiting periods will be made pleasant by musical and other features, according to an announcement of the committee.

Tickets to the former affair, which were returned to the buyers when the principal matches had to be called off, will be good at Tuesday night's entertainment, it is stated.

JUST BEFORE THE GONG SOUNDED

The varying mood of the principals in the most important lightweight contest in years is reflected in the faces of the men as they shake hands before hostilities began. Leonard, at the left, is smiling, confident in his ability to successfully defend his laurels; Tendler is serious, hopeful. Referee Harry Ertle is in the center. Manager Billy Gibson appears greatly concerned as he wraps Leonard's batbatho about his shoulders. Manager Phil Glassman is doing the honors for the challenger.

SPORTS CHATTER
By BILL UNMACK
PACIFIC SPORTS SERVICE

Julian S. Myrick, president of the United States Lawn Tennis Association, on his visit to the Pacific Coast gave it as his opinion that the day is coming when a new type of court will be evolved. Something to take the place of the turf courts that will give the same effect on the ball, and yet some form of composition that will not be as fast as asphalt. Just what the composition is to be Myrick leaves to the chemists to fathom, but he believes such a thing is possible.

The Clay court tennis championships may eventually have the name altered to the U. S. Hard Court championships. The Clay courts preclude many sections of the country participating owing to lack of this type of court. On the other hand, if the title were changed to "Hard Court" this type of court which includes clay, asphalt, concrete, etc., can be found in every part of the country. Such a change in title would be the means of allowing the Pacific Coast states to bid for such national titles.

It is rather a remarkable fact that although the Pacific Coast, and notably California, has in recent years produced many of the nation's greatest court stars a national championship has never been played on the coast, due to some amateur champions and champions in professional boxing. Walter Hoover who recently won the world title at London has come out with a statement that he will defend his American rights to the United States gold cup at Duluth on Labor Day. Hoover welcomes competition and has announced he is ready to meet all professional boxers would come out with a statement like that and mean it?

What a difference between some amateur champions and champions in professional boxing. Walter Hoover who recently won the world title at London has come out with a statement that he will defend his American rights to the United States gold cup at Duluth on Labor Day. Hoover welcomes competition and has announced he is ready to meet all professional boxers would come out with a statement like that and mean it?

Already there is more or less controversy among golfers as to the ultimate disposal of that will be made of the galleries that will be championship matches. To many it seems as if the size of the crowd of spectators already had, in several instances, reached its limit. With the continued growth of interest in the game it seems certain that these watchers will grow in number and the question seems to be—what is the limit that will have to be set to the numbers? It is a common occurrence these days to have from three to five thousand persons follow on the trail of a couple of expert players in a championship match. Thus far there has been little or no complaint made, but it seems as though it would be only a matter of a short time before this gallery would become too bulky to handle and consequently not only get in the way of the players, but tread on its own heels.

Of course, the larger the circle, the greater the number of spectators that can get into its circumference, but after this circle has reached a certain size, it will require the aid of glasses to see the finer points of the players' stance and stroke. One already sees men and women in these galleries provided with opera and field glasses and, as far as can be learned, they overcome the element of distance. In these galleries may rest the solution of the problem. They may enable a continued growth to the crowd without encroaching on the players, and it also may set up a new business, that of supplying spectators with glasses. This will require a considerable outlay of capital for, obviously, cheap glasses soon would be ignored as being unserviceable. Good glasses cost money. No sporting crowd is more orderly and requires less "policing" than the golf crowd. Practically every spectator is there because he likes the game and it follows as a natural sequence that he or she therefore has a knowledge of the rules and ethics of the game. In this respect there is no trouble. It is merely the question of size that is under consideration. Not the question of behavior.

Some greens committees have felt that these big crowds tend to wear down the turf on the fairways and there may be some justification to the complaint, but to the ordinary mortal who is not a member of the committee it would seem that the unusually big gallery is of rare occurrence and its tread on a course would be infrequent enough not to do any particular damage. The small boy or the rank outsider who might become obstreperous easily could be handled by a special policeman detailed for the job of watching the galleries. The trouble is that the galleries are not torn down or trees shrubbery broken. The fate of the galleries seems yet to be mostly in the lap of the gods.

The Browns broke out in a rash of home runs, Jacobson getting two and Collins one, as they were treating the Athletics quite according to the usual prescription, 9 to 5. By way of reply, Clarence Walker hit his 25th home run of the season.

Behind the very plausible pitching of Art Nehf, the Giants returned to the ways of the righteously and won their first game in six starts, beating the Cubs, 5 to 0. Only four hits were made off Nehf.

George Moogridge not only shut the White Sox out, 2 to 0, but hit one into the stands off Blankenship in the sixth.

The Tigers only won two games from the Red Sox simply because that was all the schedule called for, 7 to 0, and 7 to 4. Phillette pitched dazzling ball in the first game, the Sox getting just two hits and nary a man beyond first base.

The Yankees outlasted the Indians in one of those 10 to 9 endurance contests, McMillan's pinch duce scoring Scott with the winning run in the tenth.

The germ theory of diseases holds there is a special germ for each definite disease.

LEONARD MUST BE IN GREAT FORM FOR HAMMER

Champion Will Have Busy Time Saturday Afternoon, His Friends Fear

By EDWARD W. SMITH
For International News Service.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Aug. 4.—There is growing uneasiness in the minds of thousands of friends that Benny Leonard has made in this vicinity that the champion is in for a desperate time of it Saturday afternoon when he steps out, with title in hand, against Ever Hammer, of Chicago. These friends do not think Leonard is inferior as a fighter in any way, but the fact that he has a badly cut right eye is the cause of concern.

As a matter of fact it is developing that the concern over the battle is around this injury. Hammer is a wonderfully tough and willing lad and that his rushing style of milking and his incessant hitting make him one of the hardest men of the day to put under.

Benny Must Be Good
For these reasons Leonard must be in the best of shape to meet him and while he is undoubtedly in his usual excellent shape otherwise, the injured eye puts the champion in a handicapped condition that may cause him a lot of trouble.

Leonard himself admits all of Ever's toughness and general ability not only to give but to take as well. Benny knows that Hammer slings nasty left hands, coming in from almost any direction, and in such a manner that it is hard to gauge. Of course, that bad lamp is to be the main target of Hammer's left and if it connects and re-opens the Tandler wounds there may be a very interesting story to write of the subsequent proceedings.

Both boxers virtually wound up their training yesterday. Leonard shadow boxed, skipped rope and loosened up. Hammer dried out. He will weigh in at under 135. Leonard is not making weight for this match.

Sport High Spots

At last the world's middle-weight championship controversy has summed itself down upon the shoulders of one man—Johnny Meyers. The husky Chicagoan last night proved when he defeated Walter Miller, Los Angeles Athletic club marvel and heretofore shareholder in the 158-pound title, in the latter's own backyard. The first and only fall of their two grueling two-hour battle was accomplished twenty minutes before the finish when Meyers pinned the broad shoulders of the athletic club star to the mat with a heartless wristlock. Miller in a desperate effort to throw his opponent and even the score—but it wasn't in the cards and the end came with Meyers the undisputed champion.

Immediately following the match Miller, offering no alibi for his defeat, posted $500 as a forfeit for a return go with the new champ. It has not yet been decided whether Meyers will accept the challenge of Miller, who, he admits, is the best man he has ever met, or whether he will first take on a few of the lesser lights who will be clamoring for a crack at his newly-attained laurels. Ted Thye, Portland, Ore., has already sent a defy to Meyers.

By defeating Irving Weinstein of San Francisco in a hard-fought match at the courts of the Los Angeles Tennis club yesterday Tom Ferrandini stamped himself as one of the favorites to win the annual southern California championship. Virgil Harvey Snodgrass, a fellow Angeleno, one of the promising young players of the country, and Bill Parker, of San Francisco, last year's winner of the event, Ferrandini is given an even chance of coping the glue. The other entrant in the semi-finals will be decided today when Cliff Herd and Howard Levison hook up in what promises to be a real battle.

Los Angeles' victory over Salt Lake yesterday—the first of the series—was a life-saver for the Angels in the matter of percentages. Had the Scorpions lost their third straight to the climbing Bears both the Seals and the Tigers would have gained another game on Wrigley's hired hands. As things now stand, Los Angeles' chances for another championship are not nearly as bright as they appeared at the first of the week. They are now ten and a half contests in the rear of the Seals and five behind Bill Essick's Tigers.

Bill James yesterday proved that he is the most effective hurler on the Vernon staff when he let the Seattle Indians down with five hits and one run. During the Tigers' recent slump, in which the Bengalees dropped fifteen out of twenty-five contests, James was the only twirler who managed to pitch consistent winning ball for Essick's men. It was none other than James who broke the Angels' winning streak of fourteen consecutive triumphs with a four-hit contest.

How many letters we willingly wear because they were forged by our forefathers.

What Is Fundamental?

A Sermon By Dr. Carl S. Patton

First Congregational Church, Los Angeles, California.
Sunday Morning, July 23, 1922.

Published at request of H. E. Bartlett, 333 W. Broadway, Glendale.
The word "fundamental" has been brought into much prominence in recent religious discussions. It hasn't got into the front page of the newspaper yet; and I suppose it will not, until the supply of murders and scandals lets up. But readers of the religious press are aware that there is a great dispute as to "the fundamentals." It was the absorbing question at the recent Baptist Convention in Indianapolis, and the dispute has even penetrated the foreign mission fields of the church, especially in China. Teachers and presidents, in denominational schools, have been dismissed because they were not sound on the "fundamentals."

I propose a preliminary question: "What is fundamental?" And I answer:

First: Liberty is fundamental. Fundamental in religion, I mean. Because religion is a thing of the spirit. And the essence of the life of the spirit is freedom. No progress in politics without liberty; the autocratic nations are the stagnant nations. No attainments in art, unless men are free to see beauty where they can and express it as they will. No moral life unless men are free to do right or to do wrong. So, only more so, freedom is fundamental in religion, because the essence of the spirit is freedom. The light shines in a straight line, and cannot help it. The stone falls to the earth, and has no option about it. But you can be a wise man or a fool, a good man or a scoundrel. The law of the external world is necessity. But the law of the inner life is freedom. Therefore freedom, untrammelled, unimpeded, unimpeded, is fundamental in religion.

Religious beliefs are always based upon what we know about the world at large. Therefore they are always built upon the knowledge available at a particular time. In the times when men knew nothing of the gradual process of growth which we call evolution, all peoples believed in a sudden creation. There wasn't anything else to believe. When nobody had yet guessed that the earth was round, everybody believed that it was flat. There wasn't anything else to believe about it. While modern medicine was still unborn, and the air was supposed to be full of evil spirits, people just naturally believed that insanity and rheumatism, and tuberculosis, were caused by some of these evil spirits getting inside of you.

Now, if in the days when everybody believed the world was flat, you could somehow have got religion anchored to this idea, and could have kept religious people from thinking anything else; then the only people who could be religious would have been those who believed that the earth was flat. And as these people got fewer and fewer, the number of religious people would have decreased; till by and by, when there wasn't anybody who thought the world was flat, there wouldn't have been any more religious people left at all. Or, if, when all religious people, like all irreligious people, thought the sun went around the earth, you could have tied up religion to that idea, and kept it tied there, then the religious people would have got fewer and fewer as more and more people understood that the earth went around the sun—till by this time there wouldn't have been any religious people left outside of darkest Africa and the Fiji Islands. There was a time when all Christian people believed that the world was made in a week—and many people believe it still. And if you could shut up Christian thought, and not allow it to change as thought in general changes, then the only Christians would be those who believed the world was made in a week; as the number of these grows fewer, the Christians would grow fewer; till finally, as the evidence of the long process of creation accumulates, and everybody hears about it, and is impressed with it, and nobody is left who believes the world and all the creatures in it were made between stone wrote to his brother, "Some of the missionaries here have become government servants, a commissioner or magistrate at $3000 a year—and the Kaffirs say to him, 'You have the Bible in one hand, and the scourge in the other.' No wonder the Kaffirs believe not. They never will." He said what is true and always true, the world around. People judge our religion by the way we behave. They have no other way to judge it. When the man who presses my clothes says to me, of a certain man in this church, "He is a real Christian"—and when having said it he seems embarrassed and goes on to explain, he doesn't need to. I know what he means. He means this man treats him like a Christian.

TWO RETIRED CHAMPIONS MEET

Ethelda Bleibtry, world's champion woman swimmer, who retired from the amateur ranks to become a professional instructor, and Jack Kelly, world's champion oarsman, who quit the rowing game to devote his time to business.

I don't remember that Jesus recognized anything as more fundamental in religion than conduct. "Except your righteousness exceed the righteousness of the Scribes and Pharisees," He said; that is, unless you behave yourself better than they do, "there is nothing coming to you." "Why do you call me Lord, Lord," He asked, "but do not what I say?" "Whoever hears these sayings of Mine and does them," He said; not whoever likes them, whoever thinks they are pretty or clever, but whoever does them. That's the test. That's fundamental. When the judgment comes, He said, it will be based on this and nothing else. "I will say to this man, 'Come, ye blessed of My Father, and why? Because he has believed the right doctrine, professed the correct opinion? Not a bit of it. But because he has behaved right; he has done the right things, he has visited the sick, and gone to see his friend in prison, and been a good, clean, kind man. And to the other man who says, 'I remember you well, you used to preach in our streets,' he said He would say, 'Get away from Me, I don't know you.' And on what ground? On the simple ground that this man hadn't done what he ought. 'Depart from Me, ye who work iniquity.'—The man who doesn't live right, whose conduct is wrong. Since this is the way we always judge other people and ourselves, since this is, first and last, the only thing that is fundamental in our judgment of them, how could it ever have been supposed that it shouldn't be fundamental also with God? It is remembered of Phillips Brooks that he preached great sermons, enlarged the horizon of those who listened to him, and made people want to be good. But the one incident that will be remembered quite as long about him, and that the average man would allege as proof that he was a real Christian, is the story of how he took care of the washer-woman's baby while she went out to do some errands. Conduct is fundamental in religion.

Three: And faith is fundamental. But by faith I do not mean the acceptance of particular doctrines, such as that God exists in three persons. Amos never heard of that, and he certainly had religion. Jesus never said anything about it, and He certainly knew what was fundamental. I don't mean a literal interpretation of the Bible nor an acceptance of it from cover to cover as the word of God. Jesus never said anything about that. I do not mean the acceptance of some particular man-made doctrine of the atonement. That has been shifting and changing for eighteen hundred years, and people have been just as good Christians under one form of it as under another. Particular ideas are never fundamental in religion.

That is perhaps why I can't get more excited about the dispute over evolution. It isn't fundamental. But no more is creation. Not in religion. I don't mean anything of this kind when I say that faith is fundamental. I mean that there is a certain attitude of mind that doesn't change, but that underlies all changes that occur in religious people, and that is to religion what the beating of your heart is to the drawing of your breath is to you. I might call it reverence, I might call it trust. But faith is the best name for it. It is what Abraham had when he went out from Ur of the Chaldees and knew not whether he went. It is what Jacob had when he came to die, and his children and "worse" stepped leaning upon the top of his staff. It is what Job had when he said, "Though He slay me, yet will I trust Him." It is what Luther had when he stood among the princes and said, "Here I stand, I can do no other. God help me." It is what David Livingstone had when he sent his family home and started for the heart of the Dark Continent, writing to his brother, "I shall never see my children again—they will grow out of my knowledge and will all forget me." It is what Lincoln had when, not finding any Christian church he could honestly join, not having met any form of Christianity he could accept without subterfuge, he dropped on his knees and prayed that God would guide him, or said in his Second Inaugural, "The Almighty has His own purposes; as was said three thousand years ago, so must it still be said 'The judgments of the Lord are true and righteous altogether.' It is what the farmer has in his heart when he sows his seed and trusts to the soil; what the mother has in her soul when she sends her girls out and trusts in the character she has trained in them; what the scientist has in his mind when he follows the truth wherever it leads him, and knows it cannot lead him astray. It is a great, sublime, inclusive confidence in the divine order. It is the conviction, born of your experience and observation, and coming up forever fresh and new from the depths of your soul, that there is a Power in the universe that is friendly to you, and that to this Power you may commit your way without fear and without misgiving. It is what Bryant felt when he watched the water-fowl flying through the sky and said:

"He who from zone to zone
Guides through the boundless air thy certain flight,
In the long way that I must tread alone
Will lead my steps aright."

without, that is certainly fundamental in religion. And you can't have it without this.

Four: Among things that are fundamental, you can hardly say that one thing is more fundamental than another. But if you could say it there is only one thing of which you could say it; and that is Love. Not sentimentalism, of course. And not mere softness. But love is the deepest and the most fundamental thing in us. It is love that has built all homes, nourished all children, reared all hospitals, begotten all philanthropies, done all that is highest and finest in this human life of ours.

Nothing that is best in and around us can be described without this one word, love. Honesty is love of the truth, justice is love of the right, education is love of knowledge, art is love of the beautiful, patriotism is love of country, religion is the love of God and man. If that were not fundamental in religion, which is fundamental in all that cheers and encourages and blesses human life, then religion would certainly not be part of all this. But Christianity without love is Hamlet with Hamlet left out. It is a dinner without food. It is a house without a foundation under it, or walls around it. It is a pretense, a white-washed sepulchre (as Jesus said). Therefore, nothing can be fundamental in religion which cuts down the amount and extent of your love. Nothing can be fundamental in that makes you sneer at someone who doesn't see things as you do, or makes you feel like fighting with him, or justifies you in repeating bad stories about him, or makes you secretly glad if he goes wrong. And when you get a religion so pure that you want to call people who do not have it bad names, then you have got a religion out of which the most fundamental things in all religion has disappeared. Paul said it:

"Now abideth faith, hope, love, but the greatest of these is love." Jesus has been the subject of fierce controversy for twenty centuries. But there is one thing, and perhaps only one, which nobody has ever disputed or doubted concerning Him; and that is that He was one who loved God, and His fellows with a perfect love. Whatever surprises the future has in store, this one crown it can never remove from the head of Jesus—that He gave Himself, His thought, His energy, His heart, Himself, to mankind—and kept back nothing. When Edith Cavell, the evening before she was executed by the Germans, said to the British chaplain that she wanted all her friends to know that she willingly gave her life for her country, she said something fundamental; for it is written of one greater than Edith Cavell, "Greater love hath no man than this, that he lay down his life for his friends." When she added, "I have no fear nor shrinking; I have seen death so often that it is not strange nor fearful to me," you see in that the great confidence without which religion is impossible. But when she added, "But this I would say, standing as I do in view of God and eternity, I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness toward anyone"—then you realize that that which is absolutely fundamental in man, and God, and therefore in religion, had blossomed into its perfect fruit in this English nurse. In the widely-read novel, "If Winter Comes," there is a conversation between the hero, Mr. Sabre, and a poor girl whom he has befriended. She has had a terrible time in life, and made a mess of it. He asks her, "Effie, do you love God?" Her surprise at him seemed to be more at the thing he had asked than at its unexpectedness and irrelevancy. "Why, of course I do, Mr. Sabre," she said. "Why do you?" he asked. She was utterly at a loss. "Well, of course I do," she answered. "Yes, but why?" he said rather sharply. "Have you ever asked yourself why? Respecting, fearing, trusting; that's understandable. But love, love, you know what love is, don't you? What's love got to do with God?" She said in simple wonderment, as if one asked what had the sun to do with light, or whether water is wet, "Why, God is love." It was only a partial quotation from an ancient book, the whole of which runs, "God is love; and he that dwelleth in love dwelleth in God and God in him." And the same book says, "We know we have passed from death unto life, because we love the brethren." How else, indeed, should we know it? As a great American preacher was taking leave of one of his friends, he told him of an interview he had recently had with his doctor, and said, "If I never see you again, if I should go out as the doctor says, there is only one thing that I want remembered about me; that is, that I have loved God and the brethren." What else is worth remembering? If God isn't love, then it is another matter. But if He is love, then there is one thing that is and always will be fundamental in religion, and that is love.

Now I have talked freely with you, as my wont, on these great matters,—spoken what has been most borne in on me in the fifty years of my life, and what I am most sure of. If anything in what I have said seems ill-considered to you, hasty, superficial, or untrue, may God guard you against it. If you can add anything to it, if some things seem fundamental to you that have not so impressed me, take those things also to your heart. But these things, as God has led me along, I do seem to be more sure about every day—that liberty, and the open mind; that conduct, and the life unspotted from the world; that faith, a great, divine, inclusive confidence in the spiritual universe and in Him who is the author and the indwelling spirit of it; and that love, which is God, are fundamental in religion. Other things come and go. Time folds our cherished doctrines up like a garment, and lays them away. God leads us on to other life, because we love the brethren. How else, indeed, should these things be strange to us. But these things are woven back and forth through the spiritual world of which we are part. They lie deep in the heart of God. They are fundamental. Make them the foundation of your life, and nothing can ever harm you.

Builders of H. S. Webb's New Court Shops Block Deserving of Great Credit

James W. Pearson's Idea to Lower Rents Worked Out and Many Firms Aid In Bringing Building on East
Broadway to Successful Conclusion

THERE is something in owning a lot. H. S. Webb, proprietor of the department store which bears his name here, owned one on East Broadway which was too valuable to sell a few months ago and too valuable to keep unimproved.

So it was that he consulted James W. Pearson of 108 North Brand boulevard, one of the best known realty and rental experts in the city. Mr. Pearson had been noticing the commercial life of Glendale for many years and was impressed with the fact that many little shops were forced out of business by high rents.

After investigation Mr. Pearson learned that Court Shops were equally as possible as Brack Shops and the idea was presented Mr. Webb. Of course, the latter immediately fell in line with this idea of serving his fellow merchants who were less fortunate than he in the matter of leases, or were endeavoring to establish small businesses here.

R. L. Kent Co., General Contractors

with, was the logical result and Mr. Pearson's idea has been carried out quite admirably by the Roy L. Kent Company, architects and general contractors. The work was done to the complete satisfaction of the owner, Mr. Webb, who takes a great deal of pride in the accomplishment of this convenient trading place, there being twelve business establishments added to the commercial life of the city.

In fact, it is the same spirit of service that marks his endeavor in the H. S. Webb & Company store, and it has builded a big business for him.

One of the tenants of the new Court Shops furnished the sash doors and window glass.
They are the Dixon Sash Door Company of Pasadena who produce their own high class work in a model factory. A comprehensive display of their line is being installed in No. 9 of the shops, at 211 East Broadway.

Other Firms Do Their Part

The roofing is the work of the Bentley-Schoeneman Lumber Company which lays and guarantees a top on a building that sticks.
The tile you see fringing the top is the work of French & Meloeny, Los Angeles contractors, with offices in the Grand building, while the gutter work and sheet metal and plumbing was done by the Glendale Plumbing
Company, recognized as leaders in their line.

The Glendale Mill Company, for eleven years a fixture here, provided the finish lumber while Fox-Woodsum furnished the other.
The Glendale Hardware Company furnished both the rough and finish hardware while several other sub-contractors had a bit to do in making the building such a little model of good workmanship.

NEWS ESSAY CONTEST DRAWS MANY ANSWERS FOR PRIZES

Six Awards Are Given for Most Interesting Letters Sent in By Children

Much interest was created in the recent contest put on by The Glendale Evening News in order to find out why Glendale was the best place to live and many answers were sent in by children on "Why I Like My Home" which was the subject chosen for the essay, and six prizes were given for the best letters received.

First prize of $5 cash was won by Gwen Bittner, age 12, 519 Oak street, and the winning letter is published below. Ruth Vogel, age 13, of 425 North Kenwood street, was the winner of the second prize of a $3.50 No. 2 Brownie camera. A $1.50 box of Kaighin's chocolates was third prize, awarded to Marshall B. Gremtore, age 11, R. F. D. 11, Glendale, by the Kaighin Candy factory. Fourth, fifth and sixth prizes drew $1 worth of tickets to the T. D. and L. theatre, won by Edythe Akers, 401 Palm drive; Fern McGrew, 401 Palm drive, and Viola McGrew, 401 Palm drive. The tickets were presented by Ralph Allan.

Following are the prize winning letters:

By GWEN BITTNER
My home is my castle. In olden days people lived in castles surrounded by moats for safety against all outside dangers. My house is as strong as a castle and in it I am safe and secure from all outside troubles.

As I hurry home, I feel like a young knight returning to the fair lady of the castle who is my mother. She is like the noble ladies of olden days, and the thought of her warm welcome speeds my steps on the homeward way. The lord of the castle is my father, and we all are his faithful knights.

At home are all of my treasures. I have a room of my own in which I keep the many things which I most love. My dolls, and their huggies, clothes, and outfits have a place of their own. My books, my paper dolls, my games, and all of my toys share my room with me.

My sister is another big reason for my love of my home. Without her I should often be lonesome. The garden with the flowers whose faces are so familiar, the chickens in the yard, and my neighbors and friends are all a big part of home to me.

Lately, an added pleasure has opened new ways of enjoyment to the family. This is my cousin's radio set. Every evening we gather in the den and listen to the concerts. This brings the family together and interests us all.

It is when I return home after a visit that it looks best to me. As I turn down the familiar street again I feel as if my best friend had just come into sight. Home really is one's best friend, and when it is in Glendale it is truly a good friend.

All of these reasons, and many more, only tell why my home is dear to me. Our home in Glendale is very dear because it is our home, the first we have had for a long time, as we have been traveling. My home will probably mean more to me as I grow older, and I hope it will, for my heart is here. I was glad we picked out Glendale for our home, and loved it at first. Now Glendale means home to me, and I am so glad to tell people I live here.

By MARSHALL B. GREMTORE
I live in the historic Verdugo ranch house. It is made of mud which was shaped into bricks and dried by the sun. The bricks were laid together just as we would place them today and covered with a lime plaster. First, let me tell you the history of this old adobe home.

Many years ago the king of Spain granted to the Verdugo family twenty-seven thousand acres in Southern California. Theodore Verdugo chose this canyon as his homestead and the rest followed him. They built this adobe house in the year 1806, so it is now 116 years of age.

Theodore Verdugo's daughter planted, when she was twelve years of age, a beautiful rose vine beside the porch of this quaint old home. The marvelous thing is, that the rose vine is still living and is now 107 years of age and the girl who planted it is living about two miles north of here at the grand old age of 115 years.

When the rose vine is in bloom it is a solid mass of white and looks very beautiful. Then there is the old Fremont Oak tree, under which General Fremont signed a treaty with the Indians. The tree is 500 to 1000 years of age and is very large. I love to play around under its shady branches and climb its boughs in which there is an owl's nest with eggs in it; but I never break them because we like the owls.

We have a couple of cows and two pigs, one of which is my very own! Then we have a Persian cat and her baby, to whom we give milk from the cows. My grandfather is an artist and the house is filled with beautiful pictures. He has painted two pictures of me and several of my mother when she was a little girl. Many visitors come to see the house and the pictures, for the house is open to everybody.

Now you can understand why my home is so dear to me. I can close my eyes and see the old Spanish way of living. Then, I can open my eyes and see what this valley will be in the years to come.

they are pretty big; I have a doll, tables, chairs and bed for my dolls. I love the flowers that we have at home. We dress up and have lots of fun. Sometimes my playmates and I have little funny shows. Sometimes in the afternoon we have little tea parties. I make fudge sometimes.

We have a sewing bee. I make doll dresses, hats and stockings and other things for my doll. Sometimes I sew on the sewing machine and other times I sew by hand. We sure do have a lot of fun at home. We have play parades on the back lawn; sometimes we have a shower bath.

I have a pretty little kitten. It is a frisky little fellow; he is always in mischief. Sometimes he will play under a newspaper; it will jump and run if the paper comes off; it will try to get under it again and it is fun to watch him.

He will play with any kind of a ball. It does so many funny tricks. I like to go to school with my playmates. I can sing and play out of doors. My mother taught me how to bake pies, cakes, pudding and other things. I can run the electric sweeper.

My mother lets me water the lawn and play games on it. I love my flowers that I set out in the back yard by the house. I love my home because it gives us shelter and keeps us warm. I can write letters to my friends far away on the writing desk. We can have a car at home in the garage and go out riding when we want to.

I can play games in the house and out doors. I can pick fruit and climb trees. And I love our car because it can take us all out riding to see ships on the ocean and other pretty things when papa drives it there and drives it back.

I can have lots of nuts from our walnut trees. I am going to have a big garden for mama. I can help mama work and run errands for her when she wants me to. I am going to take music lessons. I can have children come over and play; we play like our house gets on fire and burns down. I see lots of little birds in their nests.

At Christmas our relatives come in and have a nice, big, jolly Christmas dinner. I can play the victrola and have pretty music. I can play jacks on our front porch. And I can play ball, too, pretty good. I cannot bat very good. I can read all kinds of story books, too. I can have fruit of all kinds—we have fig trees, apricot trees, two walnut trees and one pepper tree. I have a bedroom of my own, but my brother sleeps in it in another bed.

My mother lets me iron my own clothes after she gets through with her ironing in the morning. Sometimes in the morning I get up before papa and mama and surprise them; I set the table and get breakfast ready for mama. My sister and I get dinner for mama when she is washing clothes. One great pleasure is that I can look out of some of the windows and see the mountains looming up so big and bright and wonderful. This is why I like my home.

I like my home because I get to go to school and learn things, and because I've got a playhouse in the playhouse. I get a bunch of girls to come over and we play house—two of the girls will be servants and then we all get something to eat. Sometimes we have candy, watermelons and all kinds of good things to eat, and we say ding-a-ling and the servants have to come and see what we want, and they bow and bring us what we asked for.

We dress up and play like we are big people. In the interior of our playhouse we got a great big box for the bed and a trunk with a pretty white table cloth on the trunk for a table, and we got a kitchen in our playhouse, we got two rooms in our playhouse.

I like my home because my daddy has a garage and we can go in the garage and try to make things for our dolls. And my daddy's got a car that he can take us on trips and take us to the beach and out riding and other places with the family auto.

I got some skates and in the evening almost all of the children on the street who have got skates come out to skate. We have more fun than a picnic. I like my home because our house has flowers around it and I can pick some of the flowers and put them in a vase, and we got a lawn and sometimes a lot of kids gather on the lawn and tell riddles.

Home, sweet home, means there is no place like home and my mother lets me sew for my dolls on the sewing machine, and I like my home because on awfully hot days we get to take a shower bath; because I can help my mother with the work, because we have a little kitty that is full of mischief and is always getting into something, and I can play the victrola.

I can look out of the window and in the middle of the street are some palm trees. When I go to breakfast I can look out of the window and see the pretty mountains off in the distance and see the clouds over the mountains. I like my home because I can make cakes and pies and candy and make lots of things; because I can help iron my own clothes.

I like to sit on the steps and read and sometimes play all kinds of games and I like to sit on the lawn and look at the clouds go by; I like to water the flowers and lawn and the pretty trees, and on rainy days I like to sit in the house and sew or do something while it is raining. I like my home because I can be happy and singing, all the while doing something that will make me happy, and because I can play ball with my brother, and because I can watch children play ball and other games which the boys play.

I like my home because I got two brothers and one sister to play with. I like my home because the sun shines and I get ice cream and lots of good things to eat. I can jump rope and have all kinds of good games. Lots of times in the afternoon we gather and have a little sewing bee. I like my home because I can have visitors come and play with me.

If the higher our tariff wall, the higher prosperity would rise here, the duty of our lawmakers would be plain. But it doesn't work out that way.

UNIQUE SCHOOL IN MOUNTAINS FOR MEN STUDENTS

Wealthy Founder Is Investing His Money In Youths; Dividends Are Big

"Deep Springs"—sounds interesting, doesn't it, after you have traveled across semi-desert land of Inyo county for a large part of a day.

"Twenty-eight miles over the mountain"—sounds more interesting. It is a modern place, your motor whirled along the country roads in the vicinity of Lone Pine where cattle roam the range and mesquite fringes the hills.

Well, buried out there in the bosom of California's high Sierras is a college of which few people know—a school with possibly twenty students and four or five instructors. It is a modern place except for the fact that it is far from any community. The cement dormitory is cool in summer and warm in winter when the snow falls thick and fast.

Cowboys and Farmers
There are ranch buildings and cowboys and farmers in the crowd, cultivating 200 acres of fertile soil in the valley and running 1000 head of cattle. It is a man's country and from all parts of the United States the Telluride Association sends men to prepare themselves for the big jobs of life. All of this and more, too, is told by A. E. Jones, private secretary to N. N. Nunn, the founder of the Telluride Association which maintains many young men in different universities after they have completed their work at Deep Springs. Mr. Jones is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Jones, this summer, at the Poppy Shoppe, 125 North Brand boulevard.

Each year two or more of the students take part in the roundup. Several of them aid in the cultivation of the farm. Others aid in keeping the dormitory. And all of them pursue a course of study that would make the average college student pale.

Investing In Youth
Sunday is the only day of recreation at this extraordinary institution of learning. Then it is that the boys get the favorite broncho and go loping over the hills in quest of game or a friend in one of the settlements twenty or thirty miles away.

It is a great life and no one voluntarily quits the school, it is said. Mr. Nunn, who is in his 70th year, made a fortune in the development of power and now is investing his money in the youth who want to amount to something in the world.

Expect Glendalians at Piano Exercises

It is anticipated that a large number of Glendale residents will attend the demonstration of piano class work in the public schools, which is to be given from 10 o'clock until 11 o'clock each morning next week in Room 204 of the University auditorium building. University of Southern California, by Thaddeus P. Giddings, director of music in the Minneapolis public schools, according to Mrs. Dora Gibson, music director of Glendale Union High school. Mr. Giddings spoke on the subject of piano class work in the public schools at the recent convention of music teachers held in Los Angeles.

Mrs. Gibson states that all piano teachers have been invited to attend the demonstrations next week. It is stated that the Minneapolis schools are among the few that teach piano class work in the grades.

A savings department for Glendale children is also under way, details of which will soon be presented.

F. B. WALKER MADE HUGE TRADE WAR SUPERINTENDENT OF MAILS HERE BETWEEN TRUSTS, HENRY FORD?

Nineteen Years In Service and Familiar With P. O. Problems In Glendale

Official communications received at the Glendale postoffice state that Fred B. Walker, who has been with the local office since 1915, has been appointed superintendent of mails here.

Mr. Walker, who is known to many in Glendale through his connection with the postoffice, has been in the postal service for nineteen years, all of that time except the first year being spent in California. Eighteen years ago he was transferred from the railway mail service to the Los Angeles office.

During his service there, he was for nine years superintendent of Station E, on Temple avenue. He came to Glendale in 1915, when this city had merely a branch of the Los Angeles office, and for two and a half years was superintendent of the branch here.

Remains In Service
Then, due to broken health he found it necessary to give up the position, although he remained in the postal service.

During his seven years' service in Glendale, he has seen the office grow from a force of seven carriers and two clerks in 1915 to its present size, many times that amount. Until his recent appointment he has been a clerk in the office.

In his new position as superintendent of mails he will be in full charge of every division and department of the postoffice which is concerned with the movement of the mails.

"Walker was superintendent here when Glendale was a cow pasture," says Captain D. Ripley Jackson, postmaster, "and he knows every phase of our work. He is certainly a capable man and now Mr. Hallett and I will have time to attend to some important matters which we have been forced to neglect."

Public Telephone
The latest addition to the postoffice equipment is a public telephone which was installed at Captain Jackson's request by courtesy of the telephone company. Since the office is now open twenty-four hours each day the telephone is available for use by the patrons of the postoffice at all hours.

It is expected that additional equipment will be received soon. On May 25 Postmaster Jackson was informed that an order had been made for thirty-two letter, package and combination boxes to be installed on busy corners in Glendale. These were to be delivered "within a reasonable length of time," it is stated, although more than two months have elapsed since they were ordered.

An additional request for the boxes has been made, and it is expected that within a short time the necessary street boxes will be installed here.

PRESBYTERIANS OF TWO STATES IN BIG MEETING

Rev. W. E. Edmonds at Synods; Make Changes In Church Plans

"Presbyterians of this state have every reason to feel encouraged," says Rev. W. E. Edmonds, pastor of the Glendale Presbyterian church, who returned a few days ago from Pasadena, where he and over forty-five other Glendale Presbyterians were in attendance at the synods of California and Arizona.

"The plan of reorganization adopted by the Presbyterians of California and Nevada after two years of study puts California synod in the front rank of Presbyterian progress. The synod of Arizona has appointed a committee to seek a similar plan of organization so that the work of the church may be better centralized.

Committee to Direct
"California synod members adopted the appointment of a committee made up of representatives from every part of California and Nevada, one-third of whom are women. This committee will direct the church work by four major committees, corresponding to the boards of the general assembly. Chairmen of these committees are: National missions, Dr. Ira W. Bennett of Riverside; foreign mission, Dr. F. W. Russell of Berkeley; Christian education, Dr. W. H. Oxtoby of San Anselmo; ministerial relief and sustenance, James Marwick of Santa Barbara. I had the honor of being named a member of the foreign missions committee."

"Next year the Californians will meet at Asilomar for ten days in August and the synod of Arizona will convene in Miami in October.

There were nearly 1,000 delegates at the Pasadena gathering. Automobile rides were arranged for the entertainment of visitors and the women of the state held daily meetings to discuss missions. The synod was really a religious university. There were twenty-seven classes held every morning under the lead of specialists, to discuss various phases of missions and church methods.

Raise Pastors' Pension
"During the session recommendation was made that the pension of ministers be $1,000 instead of the present $600 and that the denomination seek $30,000,000 endowment for this purpose to enlarge the present goal of $10,000,000 now nearly reached.

Several speakers at the meeting emphasized the important place which home missionaries had in the activities of the church.

"Efforts are to be made to present the opportunities of home missionary work to young men in high schools and colleges. Speakers from New York and Philadelphia, representing the various boards of the church, were on the program during the week."

Jap Chemist Leaves Odd Will Provisions
NEW YORK, Aug. 4.—Dr. J. J. Takemine, millionaire Japanese and eminent chemist, departing this world, after having forsaken Buddha, during the last days of his life for the Catholic faith of his American wife, has bequeathed the legal world a problem without precedent.

New complications from his will were reported today.

The will, it is revealed, was made more than a year ago, and a strange mixture of oriental and occidental thought pervaded. He directed that, if possible, his body be turned over to Dr. Malcolm Harris of Chicago for scientific research. That the body then be cremated and half the ashes buried by his wife in Woodlawn cemetery and the other half be sent to Tokyo and there buried by his sister.

Dr. Harris, according to the chemist's wife, considers that science would not be advanced sufficiently by the researches to warrant taking the body for that purpose.

Mrs. Takemine, who is co-executor of the will with Matsuko Shiohara of Tokyo, contends that since Catholicism forbids cremation, it was not her husband's intent at the time of his death that this provision be carried out.

There is doubt as to whether the will can be broken legally. Yet, if its provisions are carried out, the Catholic church traditions hold Mrs. Takemine, as head of the family, guilty of an offense against the faith.

The widow's solution of the problem, she announces, is to bury her husband's body in consecrated ground in this country. It now rests in a vault in Woodlawn cemetery until the strange tangle is unraveled.

Typhoon In China Claims Many Lives

LONDON, Aug. 4.—The Chinese city of Swatow has been devastated by a typhoon with heavy loss of life, said a Central News dispatch from Hong Kong this afternoon. The property damage was enormous. Swatow has a population of 40,000 and is a treaty port. It lies on an estuary of the Han-Kiang river, 225 miles northeast of Canton.

WORK WILL START ON NEW HOTEL NEXT MONDAY

pected in view of the boost the improvement will give to the price of their property. He said that the owner of twenty-five acres which would be benefited had only contributed $300.

J. L. S. Perch of 723 East Broadway reported that Attorney Harry C. Levey of 811 South Glendale avenue had promised to supervise the collections of a certain number of subscriptions in Southern Glendale.

The association endorsed the petition, presented by E. D. Yard of 646 North Jackson street, requesting the California railroad commission to compel the Southern Pacific Railway company to provide adequate depot facilities for Glendale. Mr. Yard said that he intended to present this petition to every civic organization in the community and that he was thinking of circulating a similar petition for individual signatures.

Boasts M. B. Jones
A short speech was made by Alex Mitchell of 2001 Kenneth road, who is now campaigning in behalf of Mattison B. Jones for governor of California. He was warmly received and admitted that the east side was Glendale when he came here twenty-one years ago—and still going strong.

Announcement was made by Mr. Mitchell that Spencer Robinson, the singing mayor of Glendale, would accompany Mr. Jones on his campaign tour of the state.

"Robinson is getting more sense every day," declared Mr. Mitchell. He has changed from a Republican to a Democrat lately and it is only a question of time before you will all do the same."

The school situation was discussed by Richardson D. White, superintendent of grammar schools. He made three recommendations:

First, that enough additional bonds should be voted to provide accommodations at the new plant for 2500 pupils.

Second, that a high school site should be acquired in the north-west section of Glendale.

Third, that steps should be taken to consolidate the grammar and high school boards of education and arrangements made to operate the present high school plant as a junior high school.

Verdugo Woodlands to Have Sewers, Gas

Work on gas mains and sewer laterals in the Verdugo Woodlands, Glendale's beautiful residential district, will be under way within the next ten days or two weeks, according to W. L. Twining, general manager of the F. Newport Company, who is more than pleased with the local interest being shown in his section of the city.

Two more business men have brought homesites in the Woodlands, he reports, which makes five in the last fortnight. Next Tuesday night the Glendale Realty board will dine at the California pavilion as guests of the Newport Company.

OBENCHAIN JUROR TELLS SOME OF EXPERIENCES

Rotary Club Hears Details Of Long Battle From James M. Rhoades

Sensational charges and intimations were made at yesterday's noon luncheon of the Glendale Rotary club when James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, was called upon to tell of his experiences as a trial juror in the nationally famous Obenchain case.

In the ninety-seven hours that the jury was deliberating Mr. Rhoades declared he seldom slept and was kept fighting all of the time to vote as his conscience dictated—for acquittal.

"I never saw such tyrannical methods as were used on that jury," said Mr. Rhoades, "and I am going to have Rev. Bob Shuler, a minister of the gospel, come out here some day and tell you the truth about the district attorney's office."

'Vile, Dirty Room'
"I don't care if they send me to prison for the rest of my days. I cannot imagine an American flag waving over that court house in Los Angeles where they locked up the jury of men and women in charge of a bailiff. The men slept in a room 10 by 14 feet with one window which opened out into the vent shaft from the county jail where five or six hundred prisoners are kept."

"There in that vile smelling, dirty room we were kept for hours and taken out to restaurants that neither you nor I would eat at, but it seemed to please the bailiff to take us there until I kicked and offered to pay for a decent meal for the whole bunch, including him."

"For two days that we lived in the jury quarters there were neither soap nor towels to be had and it didn't do any good to ask for them. And we didn't get any opportunity to get home for clean laundry. We were bundled into a bus and marched like a bunch of prisoners into a hotel for the last night after we refused to stand for the poor treatment."

After Mr. Rhoades concluded, Vice-President George Karr declared it was up to every Rotarian to see that such conditions in courts of justice here no longer existed and he extended an invitation to Dr. Schuler to speak at some later date.

W. E. Harmsuth, business manager of the Parsons, Kan., Chamber of Commerce, also spoke on the necessity of supporting a Chamber of Commerce and dealt with ideals of service in Rotary.

B. W. Robinson, an Angeleno representative of Dun's, John Standard, secretary of the Alameda club, and Gil A. Cowan, who had been away on vacation, also spoke.
